MSAC board target of unfair labor practice charges

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

The Mt. San Antonio College Faculty Association has filed unfair labor practice charges against the college's Board of Trustees.

The charges state the college has been bargaining for a new contract "in bad faith" particularly as the bargaining regards a reorganization of the instructional program.

Miss Pat Perez, president of the Faculty Association, said seven counts are included in the charges, all part of the complaint against the reorganization of the program.

She said the charges were filed with the Educational Employment Relations Board (EERB).

"If the EERB accepts our complaint and orders the school board to negotiate in good faith we hope that the district will abandon its plan to reorganize," she explained.

"On the other hand, if our case is rejected we will probably go to the courts."

In that case, she said, the faculty would ask for an injunction enjoining the college from going through with the reorganization.

The college trustees are expected to take up the reorganization plan at today's meeting at the college.

The plan calls for the abandonment of the department system and would instead work through a division system. This means that 27 current department chairmen would be dropped and reassigned to classrooms.

The departments then would be reorganized into four divisions, with division chairmen responsible directly to the vice president in charge of academic affairs.

The trustees claim such divisions are easier to work with. The teachers charge that the board is making a "new power play" for more control of the faculty and the instructional program.

Miss Perez said the elimination of the department chairmen is a "bargainable item" and that the board has refused during the current negotiations to consider the teachers' requests not to go through with the plans.

Investigators feel cause of Upland plane crash may never be known

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Officials from two federal agencies investigating the cause of the crash of a private plane in Upland Tuesday which left five dead and four injured said they may never determine the cause.

"Because of the extensive damage to the plane caused by the fire which occurred, we may never determine the cause of the crash," reported Virgil Holden, operators inspector for the Ontario office of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA).

All five killed — including a prominent Pomona businessman — were aboard the twin-engine Aero Commander which smashed into an apartment house north of Foothill Boulevard. The injured were residents of the complex at 1051 Springfield St.

The accident occurred at 7:40 a.m., shortly after the plane took off from Cable Airport, Upland, enroute to a fishing trip in Baja California.

Occupants of the aircraft killed in the crash and subsequent explosion were Pomona businessman Joseph Timothy Tate, 50, Newport Beach; Dale Gibson, 40, and his wife, Susan Elizabeth, 32, of Arcadia; Yvonne Elise DeNijs, 28, of El Cajon; and the pilot, William Miller, 30, of La Palma.

Holden said today that the pilot was in communication with the radar approach control station located at the Ontario International Airport.

"We know there was a very low ceiling — less that 200 feet — and that the pilot radioed the radar control that he was in difficulty shortly after takeoff.

"We still don't know what the problem was," continued Holden. "Nothing has been confirmed."

Holden added that, as of this morning, nothing was known about the pilot's qualification.

"We should hear today from the Airman Certification Branch of the FAA in Oklahoma City, as to his certification. But this may not tell us his experience level."

Holden said that Cable Airport, scene of the departure of the craft shortly before that crash, has no tower. But, he added, the radar control center at the Ontario airport serves all low-flying aircraft in the Riverside and Pomona Valley areas.

Tate, an avid fisherman, had loaded the plane with equipment and trophies to fly to Cabo San Lucas, Baja California. He was to serve as general chairman of the 36th International Light Tackle Tournament (deep-sea fishing with light-weight tackle) set for June 11 to 15.

The tournament was being hosted by the Pacific Anglers of Pomona.

Three of the four Upland apartment residents injured in the crash remain hospitalized today.

The most seriously injured, Richard Rothchild, 20, remains in critical condition in the burn center at San Bernardino County General Hospital.

Fran Dona and Kenneth Black, who attempted to rescue the pilot and were subsequently burned, are both listed in good condition at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland. Louis Humphrey, 25, was treated at the Upland hospital and released.

Witnesses to the crash said that the pilot appeared in trouble and, at one point, may have been trying to land at a nearby school yard.

Julie Black, whose husband was among the injured, said it looked to her as if the pilot attempted to land in an alley between the two apartment buildings.

John Hullings, who also lives in the apartments, said, "I heard the plane just before the crash. The engines seemed to be sputtering and it sounded like he was trying to get power."

Upland fire officials today placed the damage to the apartments, their contents and a car destroyed in the crash as "about $120,000."

The six-passenger executive luxury aircraft was valued at $250,000.

The FAA has fenced off the crash site and a security guard has been posted to control access to the area.

Holden said the investigation is now being handled by Guy Mosier, field inspector with the National Transportation Safety Board, Los Angeles.

Holden added that remains of the plane were removed to Los Angeles Tuesday where experts are checking all systems for any indication of mechanical malfunctions.

He added that this work will take several days.

When Mosier completes his work, a detailed report will be submitted to the National Transportation Safety Board in Washington, D.C. The final report on cause of the accident will come from this office.

Funeral arrangements are pending for Tate, who was president of Tate Motors, 888 E. Holt Ave.

Wedge for Amin?

Bar British from leaving Uganda

By The Associated Press

The Ugandan government barred all British citizens in Uganda from leaving the country today in an apparent attempt to force Britain to let President Idi Amin attend the Commonwealth summit conference in London.

Radio Uganda, in a broadcast monitored in Nairobi, Kenya, said a decision on the "plight" of the British in Uganda would have to await Amin's return from London. The Commonwealth conference opened there today without him or any other Ugandan delegates.

Amin was believed to have spent the night in Libya en route to try to crash the conference. But there was some speculation in London that Ugandan reports of the burly dictator's trip were a hoax.

These were the latest reports:

—A Ugandan who answered the phone at Amin's command post at Entebbe said he had heard on Radio Uganda that Amin had already arrived in London. English-language broadcasts made no mention of the arrival, but the radio also broadcasts in several African languages. There was no indication in London of his arrival.

—A Norwegian reporter who telephoned Kampala, the Ugandan capital, was told by a spokesman for Amin that the president had left his overnight way station and was sailing for Britain on a ship. "The president is going to call us when he has reached the British capital," the spokesman said.

The embargo on the British in Uganda was similar to a ban placed on about 240 American nationals in the country last February after President Carter said reports of a wave of mass murders by Amin and his supporters "disgusted the entire civilized world." That ban was lifted after four days.

The British Foreign Office in London said about 300 British citizens live in Uganda, most of them missionaries. They elected to stay in the country against British advice when diplomatic relations between the two countries were broken last July.

There was no word today on whether Amin was on the move again or whether he was approaching Britain.

Prime Minister James Callaghan recently wrote Amin that it would be "inappropriate" for him to come to London, and privately British officials said he would be kept out because of the mass killings his regime allegedly has committed.

Radio Uganda also claimed that a British reconnaissance plane was detected over Uganda this morning but later flew away. "In the event of it reappearing it will be smashed," a Ugandan spokesman said.

Radio Uganda said the decision on the "plight" of the British in Uganda must await Amin's return from London. The Commonwealth conference opened there without him or any other Ugandan delegates this morning.

The embargo on the British in Uganda was reminiscent of a similar ban placed on the exit of the 240 American nationals in the country in February after President Carter said reports of a new wave of mass murders by Amin and his supporters "disgusted the entire civilized world." The ban was lifted after four days.

Several thousands Britons still live in Uganda, a British colony until 1962.

2 die in Riverside light plane crash

RIVERSIDE (AP) — Two persons from Blythe were killed when a single-engine plane crashed into a field, struck a tree and then disintegrated, spewing wreckage on the yards of homes, police said.

Police Lt. Ellin Asper said the victims of the crash late Tuesday night near Riverside Municipal Airport were identified tentatively as Lavelle Hancock, 49, and Carolyn Jane Hancock, 40, both of Blythe. Positive identification will come later from dental charts, said Asper, who added he did not know whether the victims were husband and wife.

Cause of the crash was under investigation. Authorities said no fire or explosion occurred.

The aircraft's destination was not known.

Urges redesign

GAO critical of Carter's energy plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's energy plan will fall substantially short of its goals and should be redesigned, the congressional auditing agency said today.

In a new analysis, the General Accounting Office said that despite repeated declarations of the need for saving energy, Carter is backing a plan that will cut energy demand by insignificant amounts.

Instead, the administration's package is intended mainly to reduce foreign oil imports by forcing a dramatic increase in the use of coal, the agency said.

"Based on the administration's own estimates, with few exceptions, the plan will fall short of the goals even if (it) is fully implemented," the report said.

The GAO analyzed the Carter energy package at the request of Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, chairman of the House Government Operations Committee.

The report was to be made public in testimony before the government operations subcomittee, but its main findings were made available in advance to The Associated Press.

The GAO hinted that to achieve his goals the President may have to seek more mandatory conservation measures than are contained in the plan pending before Congress.

"One fact that has not been widely recognized is that the administration did not design its energy plan to achieve the stated goals without unspecified voluntary actions or further mandatory actions..." authors of the report said.

The GAO study goes far beyond similar conclusions contained in an independent analysis by the Congressional Budget Office last week.

Truck owners ask less speed, 3-trailer rigs for California

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California truckers want the Highway Patrol to crack down on speeding trucks, the president of the California Truckers Association says.

Al Eyraud praised California Highway Patrol Commissioner Glen Craig's announcement last week of an intensive truck enforcement program beginning in July. Eyraud said truck owners can't control speeding drivers once they are on the road, and the CHP should do it.

He said truck owners want the 55 miles-per-hour limit rigidly enforced because high speeds increase their fuel and maintenance costs.

But he claimed Teamsters have forced owners to accept pay-per-mile rules that give drivers an incentive to speed, and that the Teamsters have fought enforcement plans such as radar for the CHP.

Eyraud also said all of the states surrounding California allow triple truck trailers and loads of up to 115,000 pounds, and that it's time for California to "get out of the dark ages" and raise its limits of two trailers and 78,000-pound loads.

But, Eyeraud said, instead of allowing more big loads, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s administration has cut out the few exceptions previously permitted for overweight farm-to-processor runs during harvest season.

Fewer liquor licenses for slums?

Cite crime, booze link

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A proposed crackdown on issuance of new liquor licenses in high-crime areas in California has been unveiled by a Brown administration official.

The director of the state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, Baxter Rice, met with immediate sharp criticism of the draft proposal from one legislator Tuesday.

Assemblyman Frank Vicencia, chairman of the Assembly Governmental Organization Committee which asked Rice to testify on the proposal, repeatedly questioned this approach to licensing.

Vicencia, a Democrat who represents a Los Angeles area with a high minority population, said major causes of crime include unemployment and poverty, not liquor sales.

Vicencia, who has received over $1,500 in wine and monetary contributions from the liquor industry this year, said the regulations would hit poor areas hardest and wouldn't affect an area of gourmet restaurants.

Asked about his contributions, Vicencia said they were not germane to this issue. He also said he might have to introduce a bill changing the draft regulations if Baxter adopts them.

The draft regulations, which Rice said he probably will act on in a month, would allow the ABC to deny new liquor licenses if the area was shown statistically to have high crime.

Death penalty veto override dead?

GOP may attempt election year proposition to hurt Gov. Brown

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State Sen. George Deukmejian, the author of the death penalty bill vetoed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., has dropped plans to ask the Senate this week to override the veto.

There's been growing speculation the veto might be sustained, because Sen. John Briggs, R-Fullerton, who favors the death penalty, says he will abstain on an override in order to encourage the issue being on the ballot next year when Democrat Brown will very likely be running for re-election.

But Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, said in an interview Tuesday that he still thinks the veto will eventually be overridden.

He allowed only that, "I think it's necessary at this stage that I not try to rush the vote."

It would take a two-thirds vote in both houses to override the veto.

Brown agreed in a recent interview that he would probably lose votes if a capital punishment initiative is on the ballot.

Deukmejian said of an override vote this week in the Senate, "all the surveys that have been taken show that we don't have the votes.

"There are as many reasons as there are members," he added.

He said he wasn't sure when he would ask for an override vote, which must be taken first in the Senate.

Brown-Younger prison feud

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s bill to lengthen some prison terms remains alive after a political shootout between Brown and a potential rival candidate, Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger.

The battle took place in the Senate Judiciary Committee Tuesday. And while backers of Brown's bill succeeded in removing most of a series of Younger-backed amendments, they did accept several proposals to toughen the bill.

The committee then sent the Assembly-approved measure to the Senate Finance Committee on a 5-2 vote.

She also has served as its secretary.

From Feb. 20, 1970 to Dec. 31, 1974, she spent more than 464 hours of volunteer service, including flu clinics and blood pressure clinics.

Given a "Good Neighbor" plaque was Mrs. Barbara Edwards, who earned first aid 500-hour certificate and medal in February 1975, and has trained more than 600 persons in basic first aid, standard first aid and personal safety, advanced first aid, emergency care and cardio-pulmonary resuscitation.

Bert Norton was re-elected chapter chairman and Mrs. Margaret Hodder vice-chairman.

Bruce E. Ehresman received a certificate as treasurer, and Donald J. Hiltabidel was named his successor.

Re-elected to the board were John L. Bobo, Mrs. Bauerlein and Mrs. Myron F. Powell. New board members elected are Mrs. Iva Dell Anderson, Hank Maxwell Jr., Ahmed M. Metwalli, Warren Shafer and the Rev. Ellen Studley.

Mrs. Mary Halstad was elected board secretary.

Male prostitute crackdown

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The current "rehabilitation program" for the Hollywood area now will include a crackdown by police on male prostitutes.

Capt. Kenneth Hickman, of the Hollywood Division of the Los Angeles Police Department, said Wednesday the stepup came as a result of recent newspaper stories on Hollywood's deterioration, including surveys of citizens showing that they feel conditions are "appalling."

Hickman said the urging of Councilwoman Peggy Stevenson, who has been a main force in an ongoing attempt to clean up Hollywood, also influenced the decision to curb male prostitution.

Senate, Assembly differ over Chino prison bill

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

The proposal to add a new prison in Chino is "one of the most disputed items" in the state's $14.7 billion budget, according to Assemblyman William McVittie, D-Upland, who opposes the plan.

The Assembly this week approved the proposed budget which included less money than Gov. Edmund Brown wants for prison construction and more money than he wants for state employes.

Related Story on Page 11

Monday's 54-19 vote by the Assembly was just the bare number needed to send it to the Senate, one more step in the long process that eventually will send a budget bill to the governor's desk.

The Assembly's bill does not include $92 million which Brown wants for new 1,200-bed prisons near San Diego and Chino.

However, the Senate draft includes the money, and the difference will have to be hammered out in a joint Finance Committee session, possibly later this week.

McVittie said the Senate had rejected a subcommittee's recommendation that the prison near Chino be deleted.

McVittie said that Sen. Ruben S. Ayala, D-Chino, and he had strongly opposed the program from its inception.

"We have asked that no decision be made on placing additional prisoners in Chino until we have a full and fair hearing on how the people in the community feel."

He continued, "We feel that there must be hearings to determine how the Chino residents and other communities involved feel about adding 1,200 maximum-security prisoners in the area. After all, the government requires environmental impact reports — this is just as vital an impact."

Both houses agreed on a 10.1 per cent pay raise for most state employes, or $212 million, a figure based on prevailing wages outside government. Brown is offering 6.5 per cent, or $200 million, and has the right to trim the legislative figure.

Eventually the budget for the year beginning July 1 probably will total about $16.3 billion when other pending spending bills are added.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thirty-five Los Angeles police officers involved in unauthorized or accidental shooting incidents in the last two years have received disciplinary action, said Asst. Chief Daryl Gates.

All but one officer were suspended for no more than ten days for the incidents, which all resulted in death or injury to an uninvolved bystander.

Gates said the officer most seriously disciplined was terminated from the department.

Gates released a statement on the disciplinary action following his report to the City Council's Police, Fire and Civil Defense Committee.

School strike

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The kids are watching Bogart movies, teachers are picketing and lawyers are arguing as a teachers' strike went into a third day today.

Superior Court Judge Jack R. Levitt said Tuesday he might rule today on the school district's request for a temporary injunction to halt the San Diego Teacher Association walkout, which occurred only two weeks before the summer recess. About 3,000 of the city's 5,800 teachers have struck.

The strike centers on a teacher demand for pay hikes averaging 11 per cent. School officials say they can't make a contract offer until the end of the current fiscal year June 30 when they will know how much money will be left.

As attorneys debated before Judge Levitt on Tuesday, pupils at Patrick Henry High watched Humphrey Bogart in "Treasure of the Sierra Madre" on television

Seek recall

VENTURA (AP) — A homeowners group upset with annual reappraisals has filed petitions seeking a recall vote for county Assessor R.L. King.

Richard Van Horn, vice president of the Ventura County Homeowners for Equal Taxation, gave the county clerk 20,305 signatures Tuesday.

The county has until June 27 to verify whether the petitions have the required 14,506 valid signatures to have the issue placed on the Nov. 8 ballot.

The homeowners group has criticized King's use of a computer to assess tract homes each year, while less frequently checking custom-built homes and commercial and business property.

Assessor in jail

VENTURA (AP) — Former Orange County Assessor Jack Vallerga has begun serving a 60-day jail term for embezzlement and misappropriation of public funds.

The former assessor's sentence, which began Tuesday, was stayed by Superior Court Judge Robert Shaw two years ago to allow an appeal. However, that appeal was denied.

Vallerga, 55, was also given five years probation, fined $1,250 and barred from holding public office.

A Ventura County Superior Court jury in 1975 convicted Vallerga of six counts of embezzlement, conflict of interest and misappropriation of funds.

The charges resulted from the sale of an Orange County home assessment computer program to Spartanburg County, S.C., in which Vallerga had been a consultant. The case was transferred from Orange County on a change of venue.

Wiggins trial set June 27

The trial for Donald Grove Wiggins, a Pomona foundry owner, Edna Methe and her son Arthur Methe of Ontario, accused of possessing illegal firearms and destructive devices, has been reset to June 27 in West Valley Superior Court.

The three were arrested last December after Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies found several large desert bunkers containing illegal arms and munitions near Antelope Valley, and Ontario police found similar munitions buried underneath the Methes' Ontario home and Wiggins' Pomona steel foundry.

Police and sheriff's deputies said the munitions and firearms included machine guns, hand grenades, explosives, and small military arms. Eight tons of munitions were confiscated, most of it of older World War II and Korean Conflict military surplus.

The prosecution and defense last week nearly reached a disposition in the case in the West Valley Superior Court, but complications forced the rescheduling of trial. Pretrial conferences are scheduled for Friday.

CONSTRUCTION TAKE OFF

Ground was broken for the Pomona Police Department's new heliport facilities at Brackett Field in La Verne Tuesday. Officials attending the event included, from left, architect William Henry Taylor, Police Chief Richard Slaght, City Councilwoman Georgia Grove, and Fire Chief John Fowlkes. The new facility, funded by a federal grant, will have hangar and maintenance areas for the helicopters and will also serve as a base for special fire suppression operations. Total cost of the project is about $300,000.

Milk price fixing return?

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Consumer representatives say state agriculture officials are sneaking "through the back door" in an effort to reimpose retail minimum milk prices.

The state Department of Food and Agriculture denied that contention Tuesday.

The accusation came at a public hearing on proposed new regulations which would spell out what a grocer must count in computing his cost of doing business.

State law bans sale of milk at less than cost, and cost means wholesale price plus the cost of doing business.

In many areas retail milk prices have declined since the department ended minimum retail price controls last January.

A lawyer for California Citizens Action Group, Lois Salisbury, said prices fell to 63 cents a half gallon in Los Angeles this week, a drop of six or seven cents.

If the same reduction were in effect statewide, consumers would be saving $70 to $80 million a year, she said.

Filthy conditions, bad food, neglect charged

Abuse in adult care homes rampant?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Helpless adults are stuffed into attics and are fed food unfit for dogs, health officials are telling a House committee examining the unregulated adult care industry.

A half-million adults, most of them elderly and all of them incapacitated, live in facilities that provide shelter for persons who can't live alone but aren't so ill that they must be placed in institutions.

Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., chairman of the House Select Committee on Aging, said legislation is needed to "curb fraud and abuse in adult care homes without precipitating additional problems."

Pepper's statement and testimony of witnesses were prepared for delivery at a hearing today.

Harold Gordon, a Maryland health licensing official, said a check of some of the estimated 2,000 unlicensed adult care facilities in his state turned up "absolutely horrendous situations" in which the elderly infirm, handicapped and mentally impaired have been "literally stuffed into attics, basements and even in one case in a barn."

He said investigators found "food being prepared which I would be hesitant to feed my dog...dirty, filthy conditions...people mentally and physically abused."

Charles J. Hynes, a New York state special prosecutor for nursing homes, said an eight-month investigation "found evidence of exploitation, abuse and neglect which may exceed the scandalous conditions found in nursing homes" in a previous investigation.

He said about one-third of the residents have a history of mental disorders. The inception of the Supplemental Security Income program under Social Security in 1974 "resulted in a situation which was ripe for exploitation of the helpless. Indeed, it encourages unscrupulous operators to profiteer by warehousing SSI recipients in unspeakable conditions while providing the absolute minimum in services," he said.

Several witnesses told of operators who take a resident's entire government check, or simply take all a resident's money from him.

Witnesses generally qualified their descriptions by noting examples of relatively decent facilities run by conscientous operators.

Daniel J. Schulder, a special assistant to Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp, said his state would need federal help to regulate the homes and protect their residents.

He cautioned that the federal regulation would mean closing some homes and forcing transfer of thousands of residents to nursing facilities.

He said the government should provide administrative funds to assist in setting standards, increasing SSI payments and strengthen programs operated by the Departments of Housing and Urban Development, and Health, Education and Welfare to meet needs of such residents.

Schulder estimated it would cost Pennsylvania $32 million in the first year and $106 million by the third year of a licensing program covering 4,800 such homes and affecting about 48,000 residents.

Mitchell to serve term in Alabama

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell will serve his prison sentence for the Watergate coverup at a minimum security camp in Alabama where he can get best protection, the Federal Bureau of Prisons said today.

H. R. Haldeman, formerly the White House chief of staff under President Richard M. Nixon, will serve his term at the federal prison camp near Lompoc, Calif., the minimum security camp nearest his home in Los Angeles, a bureau spokesman said.

Mitchell and Haldeman were sentenced to serve 2½-to 8-year prison terms over two years ago, and they have been ordered to begin serving their sentences no later than noon June 22.

Both men, once among the highest officials in the Nixon administration, were convicted for their roles in the Watergate cover-up and the Supreme Court denied their appeals last month.

The bureau of prisons spokesman said Mitchell would be confined at the federal prison camp at Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Ala., which is smaller, and therefore more secure, than the one at Allenwood, Pa., where many other Watergate figures have been incarcerated.

"We are naturally concerned about his safety as a former law enforcement officer and we are placing him in a smaller minimum security camp where it is believed he will be secure," a formal statement issued by the bureau said.

"Maxwell has 300 inmates compared to more than 640 at the federal prison camp at Allenwood," the bureau said.

Mitchell's home is in New York City and normally he would have been sent to Allenwood.

Young still in good graces of White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Andrew Young is in good graces at the White House even though he says the last four presidents were racists and the Russians are racists and Abraham Lincoln was a racist, too.

"He's absolutely in no trouble," said one administration source in a position to know. The administration official spelled out President Carter's attitude after the U.N. ambassador spent half an hour Tuesday with Carter in the Oval Office.

The ambassador, black and a former lieutenant to civil rights leader Martin Luther King, emerged from the meeting with Carter saying that the President told him "in context he understood what I was trying to say" about racism.

Did he encourage Young to keep speaking out?

"No. I don't think he has to encourage me. But he didn't tell me to shut up, either."

Does Carter share his views on racism?

"I think he understands my views on racism."

Does he share them?

"Oh, I doubt that, no."

But the administration source said Carter "for the most part" thinks Young is saying things that need to be said. "They had a very cordial and friendly meeting," the source said. "He (Carter) is not upset by what the Republicans are saying."

Indeed, the administration went to some lengths to show that Carter will not knuckle under to Republican demands that Young apologize for his remarks or be ousted. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., told reporters Young should never have been appointed.

While declining to bring Young to the White House press room because that might appear too staged, White House Press Secretary Jody Powell arranged for him to face reporters in the driveway, escorted Young out to meet them and escorted him away afterward.

Young, however, appeared less than eager to talk long.

Twice he thanked the reporters and tried unsuccessfully to leave. At one point he said: "I think the Republicans really have had so little to criticize in this administration if I didn't do what I'm doing they'd have to invent me."

THE WINNERS

Anita Bryant and her husband, Bob Green, flash victory smiles after her Save Our Children group won the election held Tuesday in Miami to repeal a homosexual rights law.

Gays dismayed by vote

By The Associated Press

What was supposed to be a victory celebration turned into a wake in Miami. A mournful candlelight march was held in San Francisco. In New York, the gay bars were somber.

Homosexuals and others favoring equal treatment were dismayed by Tuesday night's election results from Dade County, Fla., and derided those who had voted to repeal that county's homosexual rights law.

"They hate us for our virtues, not our vices," said Leonard Matlovich, who gained national attention in 1975 when he was discharged from the Air Force for acknowledging his homosexuality. "It's going to take a lot of love to turn this around because they don't know how to love."

Sarah Compton, who also was at the Fontainebleau Hotel in Miami Beach, said "Homosexuality isn't a sin. Discrimination against another person for sexual reasons is the real sin." She said she was heterosexual.

Instead of celebrating the hoped-for victory, the 300 people sang civil rights songs and listened to speeches urging them to keep fighting.

Meanwhile, singer Anita Bryant, who led the repeal effort, "danced a jig," said Mike Thompson, of Save Our Children. Miss Bryant, who promised a national crusade against homosexuality, had organized Save Our Children, Inc., which charged that the ordinance would allow homosexuals to recruit children and serve as role models.

In San Francisco, a candlelight vigil and march was held on gay-oriented Castro Street, and the marchers wore black arm bands.

But the city's large and politically active homosexual community — an estimated 100,000 in the population of 660,000 — prepared for the next battle.

"We're not going to give up," said David Goodstein, publisher of the nation's largest gay newspaper.

Man arraigned in picnic fracas

A La Puente man was arraigned Tuesday in Pomona Municipal Court on a two-count felony complaint resulting from a fracas at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds Sunday afternoon.

The complaint charged Ventura Contreras, 24, with felonious assault against a La Puente man and his son. Contreras was arraigned before Judge Robert Gustaveson who scheduled his preliminary hearing for June 17 and set bail at $3,000.

The victims, Silvino C. Tapia, and and his 19-year-old son, were beaten during a disturbance which erupted at a picnic given by employes of Mattel Inc., a toy manufacturer located in Industry. Contreras was accused of kicking the victims with his heavy cowboy boots while both were on the ground as a result of a fight near the Fun Zone gate to the fairgrounds.

Both victims were treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital with the elder Tapia being treated further at Kaiser Foundation Hospital.

There were approximately 2,000 persons at the company picnic, authorities estimated. The trouble began with the fight, police said, and escalated when officers formed a line around the victims so they could be given first aid as they lay on the pavement.

Eventually, the skirmish line moved forward, dispersing the crowd amid a hail of thrown beer bottles and rocks, according to police.

No reference to cancer at board meeting—dentist

Dr. John T. McGwire, a dentist opposing the sale of "junk foods" in schools, did not say the eating of sugar causes cancer as was reported in the Progress Bulletin's Tuesday story on the Claremont school board meeting.

"I never mentioned cancer at all," said Dr. McGwire, who practices in Pomona.

"I did say that high sugar consumption leads to dental problems, learning impairment, heart disease and other systemic problems, but I never did mention cancer.

"To be misquoted this way makes me look very unprofessional."

Dr. McGwire said he had spoken with six individuals who attended the Monday night school board meeting and they verified that he did not mention cancer in his presentation.

HE'LL FIGHT LOOTERS

Harry Morris, owner of a hardware store on Chicago's North West side, is an angry man. Victimized by looters when Saturday night's riot in the Humboldt Park area spread, Morris said, "The first one comes in, they're gonna have to carry him out."

Man arrested in burglary, gunfire incident

A 19-year-old Cucamonga man sought in the reported assault with a deadly weapon on three employes at Fasson Products, 9292 Ninth St., Cucamonga, on May 15, was arrested by West End Sheriff's deputies Tuesday afternoon.

The suspect, Eric Leon Sarraceno, 10232 Humbolt St., was arrested on warrants charging three counts of assault with a deadly weapon, and one count of burglary. The warrant was issued several weeks ago.

Bail for Sarraceno is set at $15,000.

Deputies said two men were rifling several cars outside of the Cucamonga company on May 15 and were observed by the employes.

The employes chased two men into a nearby field where the victims said the men fired three shots at them.

Carter's tax return for '75 being audited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is auditing President Carter's tax return for 1975, the year he took a $41,000 deduction for farm machinery purchases, a presidential spokesman said today.

The audit is being made at the initiative of the Internal Revenue Service, said White House Deputy Press Secretary Rex Granum. But he said Carter wants his returns audited every year he is in office from now on.

"It is the President's wish that while he is in office that his returns be audited," Granum told reporters. "It just seems to be in everyone's best interest."

Granum said he did not know the specific reason for the ongoing IRS audit or what prompted it. "It did not come from a computer printout," he declared, referring to routine computer selection of returns from persons with large incomes and big deductions.

The spokesman also said he did not know whether the audit was started during the admininstration of Carter's Republican predecessor, Gerald R. Ford, or exactly when it began.

Asked whether Carter felt the audit is politically motivated, Granum replied: "There's no feeling on our part that it is."

As for what the IRS is questioning about the President's 1975 return, Granum said "there's no particular interest in a specific thing that we're aware of."

He said he would ask Carter's accountant Robert Perry of Americus, Ga., near Carter's home town of Plains, and then determine whether the White House would provide the answer or leave it up to the IRS to say.

Perry, contacted in Americus, refused to say anything about the audit without White House authorization. The Internal Revenue Service declined comment.

"It is not unusual at all for someone with a high income to have an audit performed," Granum said.

Granum said he didn't know exactly when Carter had decided he wants audits of all of his tax returns during his presidential years. Asked why Carter waited until now to say so, Granum replied, "He has yet to file an income tax return as President."

As for why the President wants it done, Granum said, "As you know, he (Carter) has made all of his tax returns public since 1965. And this is just in keeping with making his financial affairs as a public official public."

2 students arrested in school melee

Two 16-year-old students were arrested after a melee inside the office of the assistant principal at Garey High School just after noon Tuesday, Pomona police reported.

During the fracas, one student attempted to hit a policeman with his own nightstick before being subdued, a witness said. Both youths were overcome, handcuffed and booked on charges ranging from felonious assault to drunkeness.

The disturbance began after a school official escorted the pair to the office after he was told they were creating a disturbance in the school quad. Both smelled of alcohol, he said.

The struggle inside the office resulted in furniture being turned over and involved three school officials and several policemen.

2 motorcyclists injured in Pomona crashes

Two motorcycle riders were injured in separate traffic accidents in Pomona Tuesday.

The only one who required hospital treatment was Samuel Frando, 18, of Pomona, who was injured in a collision with an auto shortly before 4:30 p.m. That accident was at Gordon Street near Pearl Street.

Frando was released after treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. The driver of the car was Frank H. Kelma, 66, also of Pomona.

The other motorcyclist, Donald E. Snyder, 44, of La Puente, was injured in a collision with an auto at Ganesha Boulevard near a driveway to the high school there. The accident was also shortly before 4:30 p.m. The driver of the car was Violet M. Bennett, 63, of Rancho Mirage.

Moluccans release hostage

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — South Moluccan terrorists holding 53 hostages on a train in northern Holland released a 46-year-old man today and said he needed immediate hospitalization.

The man, Theo van Hattem, was the third hostage freed by the extremists on the train.

Dutch officials said they did not know yet what was wrong with him.

The terrorists telephoned the government's crisis center and asked for an ambulance.

"They told our listening post that in their opinion the man needed immediate hospitalization," Justice Ministry spokeswoman Toos Faber said.

The ambulance drew up about 500 yards from the train. Van Hattem stepped off the train alone and walked down the embankment but "couldn't go any further," an official said. A stretcher was brought, and he was taken to a hospital in Groningen.

No funds, no candidates, no election

COALTON, W.Va. (AP) — There was supposed to be a primary election here Tuesday, but there wasn't. There weren't any candidates either, and there wasn't any money to buy ballots.

Gus DeMotto, husband of Mayor Martha DeMotto, said his wife and town recorder Rosemary Pastine decided not to bother with Tuesday's primary because the filing deadline passed without anyone running for any of the town's offices.

Since election expenses are paid out of candidates' filing fees, he said, there can't be an election unless someone files.

But one of the five councilmen in the small community — population 234 — in mountainous Randolph County blamed the missing election on Mayor DeMotto.

"The mayor is running Coalton like a dictatorship," said Mack George, who also serves as fire chief. "The council and the mayor should have set up something, but you can't set up something without a (council) meeting.

"And there hasn't been a meeting for some time now. I don't know how they are paying the bills without meetings."

Council member Mary Jones said no meeting has been held since last fall.

DeMotto, himself a former mayor, agreed there had been no meetings, but not because no meetings had been called. He said the councilmen had failed to show up.

DeMotto said his wife and the recorder had begun sending out registered letters calling for a council meeting so that new elections can be held.

And he said his wife and the recorder had earlier been given permission by the council to sign checks to pay the town's bills.

West Virginia Secretary of State A. James Manchin's office said it hadn't been told of Coalton's particular type of election problem.

"We've heard all kinds of things all over the state, but we haven't heard that one," said Carol Calvert, Manchin's executive secretary.

Dads are outdone

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Augustine Washington, Peter Jefferson and Josiah Franklin had one thing in common — they were not-so-famous fathers of eminent early Americans, according to Hallmark historian Sally Hopkins.

Augustine Washington, the father of the Father of Our Country, was a Virginia landowner who died when son George was 11. Thomas Jefferson's dad, Peter, was a civil engineer for the British government. Josiah Franklin was a Boston soap and candle maker whose "great excellence lay in prudential matters," said son Ben.

WAC'S HEARING CONTINUES — Kristian von Hoffburg and Spec 4 Marie L. Sode are seen together outside building during 10-minute break in Army hearing at Fort Rucker, Ala., Tuesday.

Army's homosexual marriage

She's a good soldier, but it's 'disruptive'

FT. RUCKER, Ala. (AP) — Her superiors say that Spec.4 Marie Sode, who is battling Army efforts to discharge her because she married a woman, is a good soldier — but a threat to troop discipline and morale and a blot on the Army's image.

"People have strong feelings about this subject," said Sgt. Gerard Golden at an Army hearing Tuesday.

Five Army men portrayed the 22-year-old Spec.4 Sode as an able soldier, a discreet young woman and a compassionate person.

Capt. Charles Goldman, commander of the 12th Company, said she was an "above average" soldier, but there was a disruptive effect after it was known she had married a woman.

Spec.4 Sode, wearing a military dress, sat quietly with her husband of seven months, Kristian von Hoffburg, who claims to be a transsexual — a person born one sex, but feeling he or she is fundamentally of the other.

The Army says their marriage reveals "homosexual tendencies" in Spec.4 Sode and the soldier should therefore be discharged.

Von Hoffburg, a college student who was voluntarily discharged from the Army as Linda Bowers in December 1975, wore a coat and tie to the inquiry and told reporters that "I am on trial" because of what she called her chosen "sexual reassignment" to a man. She said she wants a sexchange operation.

The marriage became known to the Army when Von Hoffburg applied for military dependent's identification card.

The Army contends that if a soldier has homosexual tendencies it can "seriously impair discipline, good order, morale and security of a military unit."

The only time Spec.4 Sode broke her quiet demeanor at the hearing was when she laughed as a witness was asked if he knew of any time she had molested women. The witness said he did not.

Spec.4 Sode, who asks to be called that or Mrs. Von Hoffburg, said during a recess that her husband has a masculine disposition and attracts women friends "like a covey of hens."

The soldier said she will not take the stand or discuss intimacies of her marriage because any talk of her sex life "would only be distorted."

The three-year Army veteran said she would probably enter a statement into the record for the Army panel of two men and two women.

Mondale presses rights campaign

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale said today the Carter administration was not "seeking to throw down a gauntlet before any nation" in its highly publicized human rights campaign.

But he said the United States cannot advocate human rights for its own citizens at home and fail to fight for the same ideals around the world.

Mondale made his comments in a speech prepared for commencement exercises at the U.S. Naval Academy here.

The vice president pledged that the United States under President Carter "will maintain our defenses" in a world filled with uncertainties.

He said the United States has survived because "we have always maintained a strong defense capability to protect this nation's security."

Mondale observed that critics have suggested that the United States, in dealing with other nations, "must put (its) democratic ideals and beliefs on the shelf."

But, he said, "We cannot teach our children to believe in human rights and democracy, we cannot honor those values in our churchs and synagogues and our schools, and then betray those same ideals abroad without betrying everything we stand for as people."

"This administration is not going to be strident in our defense of human rights. We're not seeking to throw down a gauntlet before any nation," he said. "Nor do we have any illusions that regimes which rule by force and terror will change overnight."

He added, "I don't think any of us, least of all Americans, should underestimate the power of ideas or the influence of America's example in the rest of the world."

The vice president said that in the two trips he has made overseas since taking office, he was "struck by how much people in other nations are looking at this country all the time for answers about what the future may bring."

They are asking about the U.S. economy and security commitments, he said.

Burglary prevention month in Montclair

Chief cites vacation time hazards

June has been designated "Burglary Prevention Month" by the Upland City Council and the Upland Police Department, according to Mayor George M. Gibson and Police Chief Coy D. Estes.

Estes is asking for the cooperation of all citizens to help reduce the surge in burglaries which result each summer when families leave their home for vacation trips and weekend outings. "By learning and practicing a few simple home protection hints, residents can reduce the chance that their home will fall victim to a burglary," Chief Estes said.

Failure to know and practice the fundamental techniques of home protection was responsible for many of the 476 burglaries committed in Upland last year. Estes said, "A stroll around your neighborhood any day will tell you at a glance who is away. Their porches will be cluttered with circulars, the lawn will not be maintained, and an overstuffed mailbox is a frequent sight. All of these are tip-offs that broadcast to a burglar, 'No one is at home.'"

The chief said that most burglars pick the easiest targets they can find. They want to get in, get the property and get away as quickly as possible. Therefore, if the resident puts several obstacles in his way, he is less likely to try to burglarize the home.

Estes suggested that homeowners follow a few precautionary steps to prevent burglary. They are close and lock all doors and windows and don't forget sliding doors; connect a lamp to an automatic timer to turn the light on and off each evening; since noise is a deterrent, connect a radio to a timer for daytime and early evening use.; discontinue your newspaper or arrange to have a neighbor pick it up daily; have the post office hold all mail or have a friend pick it up each day; arrange to have your lawn maintained during your absence; and consider the purchase of a reliable audible alarm.

Estes said there is no such thing as a "burglar proof" home, but he added that by following the precautions the homeowner could reduce his or her chances of a burglary.

Currently in Upland, as in many other Valley cities, police departments are encouraging the "Neighborhood Watch" programs. The programs are an attempt to organize small neighborhood groups who will accept the responsibility of watching their neighbors' homes while they are away. The groups meet with a representative of the police department and are encouraged to report all suspicious circumstances or persons immediately to the police department. Each homeowner is provided with window decals and printed material identifying them as Neighborhood Watch members.

Some valley cities also on request make special vacation patrols of homes while residents are vacationing. Upland has such a program and residents may call the police department to request a vacation patrol.

Estes said the department encourages all Upland residents to be good neighbors, and immediately report all suspicious persons or vehicles in their neighborhood. He said residents should remember that most burglaries today are committed during the daylight hours when most people are working or away from their homes.

Estes said that if a person does witness a crime or observe a suspicious person or vehicle to remember as many details as possible — the person or car's description, license plates and clothing. "A dramatic reduction in burglary will result if each citizen will assume the responsibility of becoming the eyes and ears to their police department," said Estes.

HUGE PIZZA — Workers prepare giant Haubstadt pizza.

By TIM GRAHAM

HAUBSTADT, Ind. — (NEA) — Southern Gibson County will remember last April 3 as the Palm Sunday when Charlie and Sandy Wilhite fed about 2,000 persons with one pizza.

The giant pizza — measuring more than 30 feet in diameter and weighing about 2,400 pounds — was the largest ever made, according to the Guinness Book of Records.

Making the pizza was the realization of a dream not only for the Wilhites, who own Sandy's Pizza restaurant in Ft. Branch, but also for their many friends.

Said Haubstadt town board president Gerald Meny, "People around here aren't going to forget about this. We'll be talking about it for a long time. This thing became a community project. Everyone pitched in, and we're all proud of what was accomplished."

The pizza was Charie Wilhite's idea.

"I just wanted to do it," he explained.

The project began late last year when he boasted to some friends that he was going to break the world's record, which was 25 feet, 1 inch in diameter. That record was held by a Pizza Inn restaurant in Little Rock, Ark.

Haubstadt's pizza contained about 1,200 pounds of dough, 600 pounds of cheese, 100 pounds each of sausage and hamburger, 40 gallons of tomato sauce, 40 pounds of mushrooms and 30 pounds of pepperone — plus garlic and oregano seasoning.

All the ingredients were donated but Mrs. Wilhite estimated the pizza was worth $1,400.

It was baked in a giant outdoor oven Wilhite and his friends built at the Tri-State Speedway on U.S. 41. The metal oven was heated with propane, which was pumped under the metal sheet that held the pizza.

Mrs. Wilhite, the seven employees at Sandy's Pizza and many of Mrs. Wilhite's friends began making the dough on Friday night. The work resumed Saturday morning and continued until late that night.

Because he was worried about vandals, Darvin Lamey of Haubstadt stood guard Saturday night.

Then, about 6 a.m., the Wilhites and friends were at the speedway and began rolling the dough.

The metal pan was greased and starting about 8 a.m., the dough was spread out, piece by piece. Temperatures in the upper 40s made the dough hard to handle, and it had to go through rollers at least four times.

But the Wilhites didn't want it to get much warmer, because they feared the dough would rise before the pizza was ready to bake.

Next came the tomato sauce. It was mixed in plastic garbage cans and spread on the dough with a mop.

A ladder anchored to a pole in the center of the oven and extending flat to the outer rim of the oven provided a platform that enabled Wilhite and his helpers to reach the pizza's center. A platform suspended from a crane truck also was used.

A crowd of curious onlookers had arrived by 11 a.m. They laughed when Wilhite fell of the ladder into the tomato sauce and said, "I better watch myself, especially since I haven't had any beers yet today."

Wilhite pulled himself out of the pizza and soon started spreading cheese. Then came the hamburger, sausage and mushrooms.

Pepperoni was passed out to the crowd. They were exhorted to spread it on the pizza. "You can help make the world's largest pizza," Wilhite shouted. Garlic and oregano seasoning was added last — through a grass seed spreader.

The crowd was quiet as Meny, the town board president, and Haubstadt Chamber of Commerce president Tom Schmitt measured the pizza. It was 1:55 p.m. when Schmitt announced, "Thirty feet, 11 inches — a new world's record." And the crowd roared.

Then a cover made of metal strips welded together was lifted over the oven by a crane truck. Wilhite gave the order to light the oven, and within minutes a thermometer indicated that the oven temperature was 500 degrees.

By 2:35 p.m., the pizza was fully baked. The cover was removed. And Wilhite cut the first piece. He used a rolling cutter from a corn planter that a friend had attached to an ax handle.

The crowd pushed and shoved to get the free pizza, courtesy of the Wilhites and the Haubstadt businessmen who had donated the ingredients and the materials for the oven. By 3:15 p.m., the pizza was gone. Wilhite's father, Jess, said the 30-foot pizza was the equivalent of 661 fourteen-inch pizzas.

Meny asked Wilhite's uncle, John Kiesel of Haubstadt, how he liked the pizza.

"This is really great," Kiesel said. "I've got hot pizza in one hand and a cold beer in the other. What could be better?"

Wilhite was asked if he would ever make pizza again. "Sure, this is my livelihood," he said. "But I'm not going to try to break the record again. This is a one-shot deal."

Meny said Wilhite plans to open a donut shop soon in Ft. Branch. "You know, next year he'll probably decide to make the world's largest donut," Meny said. "And he'll do it, too. That's the kind of guy he is."

Senior citizens' right to work

By HAROLD BLUMENFELD

Growing older isn't a medical malady. It's a normalprocess that happens to everybody, beginning at the time of conception. And those who are lumped together in that large group of the aging population so affected, now make up the largest minority in the United States.

Today many in the younger generation think we who have passed our 65th birthdays have done more than grow older. To them we have grown old-old. It's so easy to take old things like hats and dresses, books and magazines, old dishes and old tires — and even old friendships — and get rid of them. But it isn't so easy to throw away old bodies onto a pile of discarded junk.

So we're tolerated because there's not much else to do with us. Such reasoning is demeaning to us. We've done many good things for the nation and we'd like to continue being productive.

Much has been said and written about "equal rights" for all citizens of the good old U.S.A. There must not be any restrictions which would prevent anyone from getting a job because of religion, color, race, sex, ethnic background, etc., as long as he or she is qualified to do the work.

But this large minority (we who are called the aging minority, Senior Citizens, and other names) do not have the right to go out and work — which we must do to keep up with the ever-rising cost of living. As a result many can do more than barely exist. That is, unless we want to face the probability of losing part of our Social Security benefits.

It's a continuing paradox. Not everyone who is covered by Social Security can or wants to work. But the person who does seek employment is gored on the horns of dilemma. If she or he earns more than $3,000 in 1977, Social Security payments will be decreased.

A young friend who resents having money taken out of his weekly paycheck for Social Security argued with me about restrictions which keep Senior Citizens from earning money by working.

Because, he said, if we could find someone who might hire us we would keep someone in the large army of the unemployed out of the job market. Yet if you look around among relatives, friends and neighbors you will find many younger people who are "moonlighting" by holding two jobs. And many younger women have given up doing housework just to keep from being bored.

Social Security isn't a fancy name for a dole or other form of a handout. It isn't charity. It's money we and our employers have paid out for many years, some since the inception of the program in 1935. If this money had been set aside as annuities, most of us might be better off financially today.

I can rationalize the reasons for younger people taking on a second job or the housewife leaving home to work because she wants to augment the family income. We also want to make more money.

Suicide clinic do's, don'ts on tap tonight

"Do's and Don'ts for Volunteers" will be discussed at the 7:30 p.m. training session tonight of Suicide and Crisis Intervention Service volunteers.

The meeting will be at the Schuman Psychological Center, 600 N. Mountain Ave., Upland.

Eleanor Allen, director of volunteers, said the guiding philosophy behind "Do's and Don'ts" is empathize, don't criticize" the caller.

Other topics definition of crisis and factors to consider in estimating the probability of a caller's committing suicide.

Sunkist charged with monopoly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sunkist Growers, Inc., is vowing to fight Federal Trade Commission allegations it monopolized the marketing of fruit grown in California and Arizona.

The FTC voted unanimously this week to cite Sunkist, an incorporated West Coast fruit cooperative headquartered in Sherman Oaks, Calif., on charges of stifling competition in the marketing of oranges, lemons and other citrus products, and engaging in practices restrained trade.

Specifically, the FTC charged that Sunkist has withheld from the market a large supply of lemon products. It alleged that the action was aimed at controlling prices. The commission also maintained that Sunkist has refused to sell western citrus fruit to competing processors and marketers.

It noted that Sunkist markets 75 per cent of the total production of western oranges and lemons, and had total sales of $482.9 million for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1975.

Jack Heeger, Sunkist's vice president for public affairs, denied the charges.

Living cost hike for Social Security

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A cost-of-living increase in Supplemental Security Income will begin to appear July 1 in checks going to some 700,000 blind, aged and disabled Californians, the Social Security Administration announced Tuesday.

"The purpose behind the increase is to maintain the purchasing power of our aged, blind and disabled people who are forced to live on limited budgets in a time of steadily rising prices," said Marion Woods, director of the state Department of Benefit Payments.

SSI payments will jump $20 a month for aged and disabled persons, $21 for blind recipients and $35 or more for couples.

The increase means the total of federal and state payments will be $296 monthly for aged and disabled, with no other income, while aged couples will get $557. Blind individuals will get up to $334 under the new rates.

To honor retiree

Vi Fister, secretary at Harrison Elementary School will be honored at a retirement tea Friday from 4 to 6 p.m. at the John McCahen residence, 2069 N. Euclid Ave., Upland.

House of David is getting old

By TOM TIEDE

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (NEA) — Seventy-four years ago this spring a group of people claiming to be descendants of the scattered tribes of Israel gathered for resettlement here on the shore of Lake Michigan. They built homes and industry to await "the end of the earth's wicked kingdoms" and "the beginning of everlasting life."

Today the survivors of the House of David are still waiting. They live in communal obscurity on the north end of this port, still insisting that God will yet "lay low the terrible" and reward the just with eternity. None sits in the sun waiting for the end, but judgment day remains for each a collective rather than individual matter.

Technically, it may be that no brother or sister in the House of David will live to see the long heralded bounding of Satan. Members have been lamentably poor salesmen, hence their recruitment program folded years ago. There are no new members, and the old members are old indeed; fewer than 100 Davidites still live, and their average age is 75.

The last convert was George Wackym, but even he is no young turk. When he joined in 1957 he was 54, now he's 74. Not that Wackym acts his age. He is frisky, he is fully employed, also he is married to a younger woman (in her 50s). But as all Davidites, Wackym never shaves, and his snow white beard is a clue to his years.

Wackym runs the House of David Arts Shop. Which means he frames mirrors. Davidites operate three other enterprises: a greenhouse, a trailer camp and a tourist park. From the beginning, all ventures of the House of David have been communally owned. Profits are given to the group account, from which each member draws according to need.

Not surprisingly, the House of David's economic structure has periodically raised eyebrows in the open marketplace. Many Americans have felt that Davidite sharing smacks of communism. During the 1930s the House was subject to repeated attacks regarding patriotism. Some right wing groups still harbor ill feelings.

In the 1920s the ill feelings were also nourished by rumors of sexual hijinks with the House of David. The group's founder, Brother Benjamin, was accused of promiscuity. For Davidites this was like suggesting that Jesus was illegitimate. Despite outside snickers, though, Benjamin remained in power, and is venerated to this day.

Those who knew Benjamin argue that he was incapable of evil. Even if he might have been errant on occasion, they insist the House of David remains rooted to his memory. He died in 1927, at the age of 66, which the House believes is significant. "Jesus died at 33," says the last convert, Wackym, "Benjamin died at 33 plus 33 which is 66."

For all the controversy generated by its economic and social lifestyles, however, the House of David might have remained merely a southwest Michigan concern were it not for its athletic endeavors. Americans who know nothing about the scattered tribes of Israel may remember the House of David's zany traveling baseball team.

It was the Harlem Globetrotters with heavy five o'clock shadow. Davidite teams traveled the nation in search of home town teams willing to pay for the privilege of getting trounced. And what with the absence of TV, citizens were delighted to pay for the treat of seeing men use their two foot beards to catch occasional outfield bloopers.

Tom Dewhurst, now a leader of the House of David, played on those teams. He remembers the comedies more than the scores: "Our beards were a secret weapon. If a man got trapped between bases, he'd switch back and forth so fast that he'd go one way and his beard the other. The opposing team laughed so hard they'd drop the ball."

Dewhurst says some House players were good enough to be offered big league contracts. But the team was disbanded in the 1930s. Afterward, and into the 1950s, other teams used the name "House of David," but they were ringers, men who grew beards to cash in on the Davidites' notoriety; today the House is still outraged by the fraud.

Perhaps outrage is too harsh a word. Surviving members of the House of David are mild folks. They dress moderately, eat moderately (they are vegetarians), and live in admirable harmony.

The simplicity is understandable. Gone are the times when hot-eyed Davidites engaged in dozens of enterprises, including one of the nation's largest cold storage plants. Today the eyes are gray here, life is slow, the paint peels on the homes because there aren't enough members left who are young enough to climb repair ladders.

And yet their convictions never age. George Wackym says vigorously that the day will still come when "there shall be no more sorrow, or crying, neither shall there be any more death." That's what's sustained the House of David for three quarters of a century. "We don't look to die," says the last convert, "we look for life."

RESIDENT OF THE HOUSE — George Wackym, at 74 the last convert to the House of David, lives for the day when "there shall be no more sorrow or crying . . . or death."

Supervisors take closer look at tax bills

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Asst. City Editor

Tax bills issued commercial and industrial property owners in Los Angeles County soon may come under closer scrutiny.

In the continuing survey of practices of Los Angeles County Assessor Philip A. Watson, the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors Tuesday instructed the county's chief administrative officer, Harry L. Hufford, to look into the possibility of setting up a review board for commercial and industrial taxpayers.

This board, supervisors agreed, should resemble the commission which now monitors tax bills sent residential property owners.

This action, and accompanying discussion Tuesday, followed the presentation of an in-depth report by Carmine S. Bellino, who recently had been retained by the board to audit the assessor's office.

At the direction of the board, copies of the Bellino report were delivered to the district attorney's office and to the State Board of Equalization.

Suggest watchdog panel

"If this survey is accurate," said Supervisor Ken Hahn, there are vast areas, running into the millions of dollars, where properties are not properly assessed.

"In one instance, a two-mile stretch of Wilshire Boulevard, one of the most valuable pieces of real estate in Beverly Hills, was not reassessed for five years.

"We need a full review from the chief administrative officer on this, and recommendations."

Board Chairman Edmund D. "Ed" Edelman agreed. "We must make sure we're doing a fair job for everyone," he said. "However, in fairness to Watson, we cut back his budget when he came in and asked for more staff.

"The plain fact of the matter is, however, that the assessor's office has not done a very thorough or evenhanded job when it comes to assessing commercial and industrial properties.

"Disclosures during recent months show we have the responsibility of overseeing the assessor's office and making sure policy is followed. If it weren't for the Bellino report, we wouldn't be aware of what areas are being reassessed. This board has the obligation to review, aside from any criminal activity, practices of the assessor's office."

Supervisor Baxter Ward, instigator of the investigation into practices of the assessor's office, said he was "pleased " with the Bollino report.

"We should discuss this with Richard Nivens of the State Board of Equalization," said Ward.

Supervisor Pete Schabarum stressed the importance of sending copies of the report to the district attorney's office and also the assessor's office. He said, too, that Watson probably would have to have more manpower in the future.

"If we were following policy, we probably could use existing manpower to do a proper assessment," added Edelman.

In his report, Belino concluded: "Indications are that the residential taxpayer has borne more than his share of taxes as compared to the commercial-industrial area."

Marshall cafeteria feud sparks a recall threat

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

The first hint of a possible recall surfaced Tuesday night as the Pomona school board heard another presentation from disgruntled Marshall Junior High School parents on the need of a cafeteria at the 22-year-old school.

The board heard its strongest protest from Claudia Thomas, who urged trustees "to take immediate action to include the cafeteria in the budget for June 9."

Mrs. Thomas said parents would not accept a relocatable structure such as the type built at Armstrong Elementary School in Diamond Bar. Regarding the method of financing, she said "a bond issue will never pass because of the way the monies were spent after the last tax override."

Marshall parents have objected to the administration's contention that any construction of a major facility such as a cafeteria will have to be financed by a bond issue. Parents maintain the Armstrong multipurpose building completed this year was financed by general fund monies.

Trustee C. Allen Braswell asked that a complete report on the funding of the Armstrong building be prepared by the administration.

Concluding her remarks to the board, Mrs. Thomas said, "Recall may be the only answer. The board of education is supposed to see to our needs and this one has not. Twenty-two years is ridiculous. I object and I hope the community objects."

The troublesome situation was compounded by what appeared to be a mixup of some kind between the district administration and the architects for the project.

The architects were supposed to have arrived with a modified plan for the structure, but instead showed up with a plan in which the only modifications appeared to be the substitution of concrete blocks for bricks and smaller kitchen and toilet areas.

Architect Tom Matlock, representing Cashion-Horie, told the board that his firm had presented as limited a plan as it could considering the specifications. He said no further reductions could be made in the plan without changing to a modified relocatable type structure such as the one at Armstrong Elementary School.

Aside from the parents stating forcefully they do not want this type of structure, Matlock noted that changing to the relocatable style of building would result in a savings of only five per cent while leaving the district with a significantly less substantial structure.

Chino prison expansion: some good news, some bad news

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

Expansion of prison facilities in Chino would increase city revenues and create some new jobs for local residents, but it would also increase Chino Police Department's workload, concludes a report presented to the Chino City Council Tuesday.

The report, presented to the council by City Manager John Gerardi, estimates that proposed expansion of the California Institution for Men (CIM) to accomodate 1,200 additional inmates would increase city income by about $26,000 per year and expand employment and business services to the facility.

Those would be the major benefits of expansion, said Gerardi, but there could also be liabilities — most notably the effect an increased prison population would have on police services to the institution.

"The Chino Police Department is responsible for investigating all major crimes committed within CIM and other local prison facilities. With an increased population of 1,200, the possibility of more violent crime being committed increases," said Gerardi.

Police services to the prison not only include investigation of crimes within the walls, but also extensive service commitments in the event of escapes and in extradition proceedings.

Gerardi noted, however, that the state does attempt to fairly reimburse the city for additional police services to the prison facilities.

One other possible benefit of prison expansion, said the report, is the potential upgrading of sewage treatment works at the prison, which could help ease the capacity problems being faced at the Chino Basin Municipal Water District's treatment plant south of the city.

The report, prepared by the city staff, was requested by the council last April following announcement by the state that the Chino prison was a possible site for much needed prison expansion in California.

At the time of the announcement, state officials tentatively proposed building two new facilities at CIM, each of which would house up to 600 inmates.

Ontario narrowly approves bingo

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

Refusing to "gamble" $28,000 in taxpayers' funds, Ontario City Council narrowly approved legalization of bingo within the city Tuesday night.

Council reversal of its March 15 denial came after Councilman Beecher Medlin, conceding that bingo would undoubtedly be approved in a $28,000 special referendum election, joined Mayor Paul Treadway and Councilman Homer Briggs in the favorable vote. As expected, council members Faye Dastrup and Robert Abel refused to budge from their positions of opposition.

Mrs. Dastrup offered a lengthy explanation of her opinion, quoting support for her position from such persons as the late J. Edgar Hoover. She claimed no mingling of her religious convictions and civic responsibility.

Abel did not speak throughout the hearing.

The vote was a second reading on the ordinance drafted by City Atty. Sam Crowe. It calls for strict regulation of bingo. It becomes effective 30 days after adoption, or about July 7.

Bingo supporters presented another petition bearing the signatures of 1,457 Ontario residents asking the council to legalize bingo. The petition also stated that if the council failed to adopt the necessary ordinance, the same people would join others for a special referendum election.

The tone of the final discussion was calm, considerably different from previous sessions that dissolved into acrimonious, religious assaults.

Proponents reiterated their arguments that bingo is "quiet recreation," the costs are minimal, allows opportunity for senior citizens and others to socialize, is a source of funding for charitable organizations, youth groups and other special community projects and programs. Those speaking in favor included Gene Tanner, Ray Mick, Conrad Stroh of the American Cancer Society's Ontario chapter, Gil Bracken of St. George's Catholic Church and Alan Soper.

The Rev. Robert Downey, pastor of the South Euclid Baptist Church, lead the opposition. He raised moral concerns, noting there is already a bill before the state Legislature to extend bingo playing to fraternal organizations. State law presently allows bingo only by charitable, nonprofit organizations according to regulations of the Internal Revenue Service and State Franchise Board.

All but one shooting suspects released

Four adults arrested in the wounding of two men in Pomona Sunday afternoon have been released but a juvenile boy also booked in the shootings remained in custody as the principal suspect in the case, police said today.

The shooting occurred at an apartment building in the 1400 block of E. Kingsley Avenue. The two victims, Jose Manuel Medina, 17, said by relatives to be a resident of the building, and his companion, 31-year-old Albert H. Carrasco, of Pomona, were shot several times outside the building.

Those arrested were Juan Gregorio Terriquez, 20, of Thermal; James Moreno Valenzuela, 21, of Coachella; Howard Peter Valenzuela, 20, of Indio; Linda Ann Meraz, 20, of Coachella; and the juvenile, who lives in Coachella. All except the juvenile were released after the district attorney's office refused to issue complaints against them.

Police reported that the shooting occurred shortly after the Pomona youth was ordered from an apartment inside the building after Terriquez found him with Terriquez' former girlfriend there. Officers said that when Medina returned a few minutes later with Carrasco, he was wounded by shots fired through the front door.

Lancaster recovering

Assemblyman Bill Lancaster, R-Covina, is reported in good condition at the Loma Linda University Medical Center today where he is recuperating from heart surgery performed Monday.

Surgeons did a coronary arterial bypass in Lancaster's heart, using an artery from his leg to replace damaged arteries leading to the heart.

Lancaster's administrative assistant, Ed Connolly said Lancaster would remain in the intensive care unit another day and remain in the hospital another seven to 10 days before going home for a four- to six-week recuperative period.

His surgeon predicts a full recovery for the assemblyman.

Set slaying trial date

A trial for Raymond Porter, 20, of Chino, accused of slaying an Ontario man and seriously wounding his nephew near De Anza Park in Ontario Dec. 18, has begun in West Valley Superior Court before Judge Clifton L. Allen.

Jury selection for the trial began Monday, with testimony expected to begin today or Thursday.

Porter is charged with one count of murder and one count of attempted murder in the case. He is accused of killing Robert M. Aguilar, 19, of Ontario and seriously wounding his 14-year-old nephew, George Aguilar.

Police reported the two victims were walking near the park when a carload of men, described as male Latins, drove by and fired several shots at them. A second car was reported to have followed, and several more shots were fired, felling the elder Aguilar and his cousin.

Police later arrested four men. Two were released. The third man, Solomon Negrette, 19, also of Chino was acquitted of all charges by a San Bernardino County Superior Court jury last May. In that case, the evidence was insufficient to find a guilty verdict.

C-CAP reorganizing volunteers

The Pomona Base of the California Community Alert Patrol (C-CAP) has dropped its affiliation with that organization and reorganized as Citizens Community Alert Patrol.

This new organization will hold its first public meeting tonight at 7:30 in the auditorium of the Education Center, 800 S. Garey Ave.

The same officers will serve in the new organization.

Base Cmdr. Jack Botkin said the move was made by the board of directors because of membership dues and fees levied by C-CAP Commander-in-Chief Ganzia Washington Jr. Washington had requested a $50 membership fee from each volunteer as well as $5 monthly dues per member.

In the new organization, there will be no membership fees or dues, Botkin said.

Five men will serve as an executive board of directors to the Citizens Community Alert Patrol. They are Walter Barkeley, Denver Limming, Larry States, Charles Kimmel and William Schick.

Those who wish to join the patrol may call the office at 623-2554 or write P. O. Box 1943, Pomona 91769.

Base members are volunteers who serve without pay to assist law enforcement in the prevention of crime in Pomona.

Melting pot boiling over

Back around the turn of the century, during the high tide of immigration, Teddy Roosevelt saw a danger of the United States turning into a "polyglot boarding house."

It didn't happen, chiefly because in those survival-of-the-fittest days, it was sink or swim for immigrants. Either they learned English or they had little chance of entering the mainstream of American society.

Today, however, the ruling philosophy seems to be that every private problem must have a public remedy. Recent government legislation and court rulings — combined with the phenomenon of a continued high immigration rate, especially of the illegal kind — are making it increasingly likely that the United States will become a bilingual, if not a multilingual, society, say some observers.

In 1974, for example, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that San Francisco schools must provide special language classes for non-English-speaking students. This ruling, says James Farrell in a book called "Give Us Your Poor (The Immigration Bomb)," opened the door for multilingual educational programs throughout the nation — "programs which will ultimately cost the taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars annually" at a time when many schools are being forced to cut back or eliminate programs in art, music, drama and sports due to a lack of funds.

In 1975, Congress passed a bill requiring that voter information, registration forms and ballots be printed both in English and in the language of every group constituting more than five per cent of the population of a particular area.

As a result, San Francisco must now print ballots in English, Spanish and Chinese. A fourth language, Tagalog (Filipino), may have to be added after the next census.

In 1976, in what Farrell sees as another step in the "de-Americanizing" of the United States, the U.S. Justice Department ruled that 513 political jurisdictions in some 30 states must hold elections in more than one language to comply with 1975 amendments to the Voting Rights Act.

It is the increasing impact of illegal immigration, however, that gives the greatest cause for concern.

"The problem is serious," warns Leonard D. Chapman, former commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. "But we are seeing only the beginning of a flood, a human tide that is going to engulf our country unless something is done to stop, or at least slow it."

Writing in "The Futurist," John D. Huss and Melanie J. Wirken contend that official projections of the U.S. population, based on the current birthrate of U.S. women and the total number of legal immigrants, are probably "much too low."

More realistic projections, they say, would take into account the 800,000 illegal immigrants, mostly Spanish-speaking, believed to enter the country each year. Assuming nothing is done to curb illegal immigration, the U.S. might have nearly 100 million more people in the year 2025 than would be expected on the basis of the current natural increase (2.1 million births per year) plus legal immigration (400,000 per year).

In the same issue of the magazine, Richard Downes paints two "scenarios" of the possible consequences of illegal immigration, one optimistic, the other pessimistic. In the first, the United States gradually and peacefully accomplishes the transition to a Spanish-speaking society. In the second, mounting social strife eventually leads to a breakup of the U.S.A.

Forecasting the future on the basis of presently perceived trends is always a highly chancy business, of course, especially when human beings are involved. But enough evidence is accumulating to lend more than a little urgency to warnings that unless great wisdom and foresight are brought to bear on the problems of illegal immigration and linguistic "rights," the so-called melting pot could one day come to a real boil.

Think on these things

Wouldn't you think that after all that we've been through we deserve to indulge ourselves in a little self pity? The trouble with that theory is that we do not dare take advantage of all the things we deserve. All the things that are lawful for us just simply do not prove to be expedient.

We have the freedom of choice. As much as we tell ourselves that we have the right to feel bad, there's still a higher self that denies our using that right. We may demand our right-of-way on the street corner and end up in a tangle because someone else did not honor that right. We cannot honor all of our own rights, but we can take advantage of so much more. We can rise above our own negative emotions, our own desire to fail so we can prove things are as bad as we said they were. That is a privilege, a gift to allow us the freedom to say, "This will pass, I will survive, and I will win!"

Criticism of Carter diplomacy

Dear Editor:

President Jimmy Carter's diplomacy that is being applauded so loudly is the same thing we have been doing so successfully for too many years. He may be somewhat more dedicated to the old slogan, "Give everything to everybody, and they will love the United States," but it just does not work. The more we give to the other countries of the world the more they want, and the more they hate us.

As far as can be seen, President Jimmy Carter is leaving behind an unending trail of momentous mistakes, but let us only take time here to think of two in particular.

First while in Europe for the much-lauded summit, he talked to our NATO allies, and told them that we would start buying weapons and equipment made in Europe. This to balance the trade in military hardware, which sounds good at first, but when you look into NATO and see that the United States is paying the majority of the bills, it is not nearly so wonderful. Now instead of the U.S. taxpayers paying the bills and our economy reaping the trade benefits, we will still pay the bills, but the European countries will be on the economically winning side.

A second misadventure of Mr. Carter is his statement of late that any peace in the Middle East should include reparations to be paid to the Palestinians. When you look back you see that it was the Arabs that attacked Israel; so if anyone is entitled to be paid reparation, it should be Israel collecting from the Arabs.

If the Arabs had overrun Israel in their war, do you think they would give back the territory and pay reparation? You can bet your life they would not. Not that the Israelis are always right, but supposedly they are our allies, and therefore should not be sold down the river by us with a statement such as the one made by Jimmy Carter. Another beauty of the statement is that according to Mr. Sadat of Egypt the U.S. taxpayer would have to foot this bill that Mr. Carter endorsed.

It will be a wonder to see what is left of this great country after four years with President Jimmy Carter running things the way he sees them.

Slain maitre d' got around

WASHINGTON — At 2 a.m. May 12, the body of restaurateur Alexis Goodarzi, the self-styled "prince" of Capitol Hill, was found slumped behind the wheel of his orange Porsche sports car. There were three .32 caliber slugs in his head, the work of a professional killer.

Investigators now suspect that the flamboyant Goodarzi was an undercover operative for Iran's dread secret police. One investigator close to the case called him the "Tongsun Park of Iran," a reference to the man-about-Washington who allegedly tried to buy influence on Capitol Hill for the South Korean government.

Like Park, Goodarzi was a social swinger who packed a big bankroll and entertained congressmen. Both men were in their 30s, both moved at a fast pace; both reportedly had tens of thousands of dollars scattered in Washington bank accounts. Park reportedly had ties to South Korea's KCIA, Goodarzi to Iran's Savak.

But Goodarzi surpassed Park in dash and daring. On the night Goodarzi died, two beautiful women were waiting for him — one in a late-night joint, the other in his condominium. He also provided exotic beauties, our sources say, for congressmen with a taste for illicit romance.

Because one of the women was whispered to be a Korean, House investigators have been asking questions about Goodarzi. Their only interest, as we reported last week, was to determine whether he had any direct connection with the Korean scandal. The House Standards Committee is not investigating his alleged Savak activities nor his Capitol Hill call girl operations.

Ostensibly, Goodarzi was the maitre d' at the soigne Rotunda restaurant on Capitol Hill, a place where congressmen can dine discreetly with their lady friends. But the police believe he was keeping a quiet watch on his prominent clientele and reporting spicy tidbits to Savak contacts in the Iranian embassy, possibly for blackmail purposes. Our sources say he was in touch with two embassy contacts.

We have also made another significant discovery. Months ago, Iranian sources furnished us with a list of 14 top Savak agents in the United States. They are headed by Col. Mansur Rafizadeh, an Iranian diplomat in New York, whom U.S. intelligence sources confirmed is a Savak bigwig.

The fifth person on the list, an attache at the Iranian embassy, helped arrange to return Goodarzi's body to Iran. He has also made persistent efforts to gain possession of Goodarzi's effects, which include tapes, correspondence, lists of names and other contents from safety deposit boxes.

We have agreed to withhold the name of this embassy official, because we have been unable to corroborate from U.S. sources that he is a Savak agent. He acknowledged that he had met with Goodarzi at the Rotunda but denied the meeting had anything to do with intelligence activities. He was convinced, said the official, that Goodarzi had no contact with Savak agents.

"Our two countries are too close to each other," he said, "for us to want to (traffic in Capitol Hill gossip)."

Footnote: The murdered maitre d' operated on the edge of the underworld. He gambled heavily and had narcotics connections. Police believe he was killed, for reasons unknown, by an underworld executioner.

CASTRO'S CONTEMPT: Sources close to Cuban strongman Fidel Castro say he is privately contemptuous of world rulers who hide behind their bodyguards.

For example, he looks upon Libya's Muammar Qaddafi, though they are supposedly sympatico, as a "sissy." In Castro's opinion, Qaddafi is obsessed with his personal security.

The Cuban conquistador also complained to intimates after his recent African trip that several African leaders were too timid.

Castro has bodyguards of his own, but he keeps them in the background. He mingles with the populace and makes impulsive appearances, with no apparent regard for his safety. He projects a macho image and has a tendency to swagger.

MISSING SECRETS: The Army's superspies are scurrying around Ft. Meade, Md., searching for secrets that have mysteriously disappeared.

The Army's elite intelligence unit at Ft. Meade conducted a routine inventory of their classified papers last year. Approximately 300 classified documents, listed on the books at Ft. Meade, couldn't be found.

Frantically, the Army spooks turned their offices upside down. They found evidence that some of the missing papers had been destroyed. But 249 documents were still unaccounted for.

The Army returned to the search. A "special team" was formed to track down the lost papers. But an Army spokesman acknowledged to us that 158 classified documents were still lost.

The culprits, in the Army's opinion, aren't Communist spies but bureaucratic bunglers. There is "no indication of any compromise of material," said the spokesman.

A better way than Groucho's

There's just got to be a better way to grow old than the way Groucho is doing it.

That he was a much-in-demand entertainer for more than half a century doesn't matter any more.

That he is rich doesn't matter much.

No memory of being a star makes up for later disregard or keeps the end from being hard.

Groucho Marx, aged and ailing, can't even buy friends any more.

There was the woman companion who looked after him — Erin Fleming. But witnesses convinced a court that she was less than kind to him — scolding him, swearing at him, mistreating him.

Then the court appointed Nat Perrin to look after the old comic.

Nat Perrin used to write for Groucho — "loved the man," he said.

Now Perrin wants out. He says looking after Groucho is interfering with his own life.

He says he is constantly on call; it's a continuous job.

He says, "I just don't want to devote my life to that."

Groucho has a son who visits sometimes — Arthur Marx.

It was he who most vociferously objected to the presence of Miss Fleming in the house.

Theirs appears to be mostly a squabble over who is going to get whatever is left of Groucho's money when he's gone.

There's got to be a better way to grow old than this.

There is — if you can manage it.

I'm researching for a book to be called "Happily Ever After."

Interviewing those couples which are living out their lives together, I am constantly seeking to learn their formula.

These are, men and women married to each other for 70, 80 years — one couple for 83 years.

For the most part even those who are now in nursing homes are more "tranquil" than those who are living out their years alone.

Of course, many of us will have no control over the timing of eventual separation.

But most of us do have some control which two-in-five couples are tending to abdicate through separation or divorce.

Billy Graham's counsel is sought by many whose marriages are falling apart.

If the wounds are reparable, Billy frequently recites the experience of his in-laws.

Dr. L. Nelson Bell (Ruth Graham's father) tended his ailing wife for the last decades of their lives together — not grudgingly, but triumphantly!

Dr. Bell would not consider "outside help" with chores. He considered those years of constant togetherness their happiest.

When a woman grows frightened of her mirror and a man begins to despise his own waning virility, there is an understandable temptation to jump the fence. But that impetuosity might be curbed in many if they would look down the road ahead and remember Groucho.

Just in jest

A recent survey of the college graduate situation indicated that today there is an ever increasing number of people in this country known as the educated unemployed. And some critics of higher education contend this information definitely proves a college degree is of little value in today's hectic world. — Not so! Not so! Every day college graduates are demonstrating that, rather than being dangerous, a little learning can be a wonderful thing. Why, only recently three unemployed Southern Illinois University graduates joined forces and are now making a nice living offering psychiatric counseling for wayward dogs.

Funny, isn't it, how one word can be used to describe so many different things? Take the word PILL for instance. You'll find a thousand one different kinds of pills in any drug store in the land. So naturally, when making a purchase, customers always are quite specific. — "I want a headache pill," they say . . . or "a laxative pill . . . a pill or indigestion . . . a pill for high blood pressure . . . a cold pill . . . a sleeping pill . . . " — But more amazing still is how, if they simply preface that all-inclusive word PILL with the three letter word THE, it immediately becomes one of the most specific words in the English language.

Sacramento scene

$2 billion can be big trouble

It now appears that California is heading for the greatest disaster since the 1906 San Francisco earthquake and fire. While a budget surplus is projected to be between $2 billion and $2.5 billion, the amount of energy being consumed in dreaming up ways of spending this amazing windfall dwarfs everything that has been done to conserve fuel and power.

The only plus which will result from the situation is that it will provide future political science students with a classic study of the evils of surplus funds in governmental operations or the advantages of deficit financing.

As it stands the politicians are being swarmed with proposals for the spending. Like relatives coming out of the woodwork for a will reading, advocates of pet projects who smell the opportunity to launch their programs in this moment of abundance are besieging Sacramento. If all of the schemes were to be approved, the state would find itself with a continuing deficit greater than the current $15 billion budget.

The competition starts out fierce for increases in ongoing programs. Property tax relief and school financing vie for the major chunks with the university, state employes, teachers and professors close behind. Then, there are the demands for larger welfare, unemployment and workmen's compensation payments. After that comes a host of propositions for the funding of such new programs as a $100 million trust fund for arts.

The dilemma for the politicians is that they cannot this time beam patronizingly upon the multitudes of supporters for one program or another and tell them they sympathize but unfortunately the state doesn't have the money.

Yet, unless the surplus is to be nothing more than a signal for greater tax increases a year or two hence, the solons will have to slam the door shut as though no surpluses exist. The chances for this happening are about the same as carrying water in a sieve. Still that shouldn't bar discussion of the proper way to deal with the surplus which, as former Gov. Ronald Reagan astutely observes, is the result of "government taking more than government needs."

Reagan says he would give the money back in rebates. Transaction expenses in collecting, then returning, the tax dollars is costly and the plan doesn't assure that the money will get back into the pockets from which it was extracted. And, while that method of avoiding future budgetary commitments has much merit, a better way would be to pay off some of the more than $5 billion bonded indebtedness of the state or finance some of the capital outlay connected with the additional $2 billion debt about to be incurred through sale of bonds already authorized.

The only parallel in modern history occurred some 30 years ago when the state treasury was bulging with revenues resulting from a wartime economy. The total state budget at the time was only slightly over $400 million and the surplus was nearly that much. After reserving $100 million for the state's capital outlay programs, the legislature under the leadership of the late Sen. George J. Hatfield overrode Gov. Earl Warren to distribute the surpluses to local government for deferred public works projects. As Hatfield said, "It's better to throw the money to the four winds than allow it to be used to commit the state to new and continuing programs."

Using the funds for property tax relief and school financing will not reduce the costs of government. It merely shifts the burden to the state level and commits it to higher budgets and more tax increases. It will stymie efforts of Speaker Leo McCarthy to reduce income taxes by indexing to adjust tax rates to inflation.

Ann Landers

Caring for parent exasperating

Dear Ann Landers: You printed a letter from a desperate woman who was trapped into caring for an elderly parent. Ten years before, she promised her father she would always take care of "Mother." Now she is being driven crazy by constant nagging, financial trouble (gets $246 a month Social Security), no friends — and hates everybody.

Your response was, "There's got to be an answer to your problem but I don't know it." You asked for help from readers. Well, here I am.

First: Your mother is eligible for supplemental Social Security payments. And so are you if you are over 65.

Second: Call your Social Security and inquire about part-time help so you can get out of the house. (Sounds like you're going bananas.)

Third: Your mother may be eligible for food stamps. Check the phone book under Food Stamps.

Fourth: You need to know how to present your mother's needs to your brother. Even a small monthly amount would be a great help. (Ask your clergyman or a counselor for guidance in this area.)

Fifth: You need help for yourself in dealing with your feelings about your mother. Each of us wants to be a good child to an aging parent but we all have needs of our own. Get counseling from your local Mental Health Center, your clergyman, the Family Service Association or your city or county office of the aging. Try them all. Be persistent. You CAN put together a better system of care for your mother and a better life for yourself if you try. — Jane O., Washington, D.C.

Dear Jane: Thanks for a superb letter. You didn't ask me to plug your book, but I'm doing it anyway. Title: "When Your Parents Grow Old," by Jane Otten, publisher, Funk and Wagnalls, price $9.95.

Here's another good letter — same subject.

Dear Ann: Before I begin what may seem a hard-boiled letter, let me say my sympathies are with the people who are trying to care for elderly parents at home. Here are some suggestions:

1. Realize that your mother is probably suffering from some form of senility, manifested in unusual demands, infantile, egocentric behavior, etc.

2. Quit being a martyr! GO out when you feel like it and LEARN to turn a deaf ear when she yells at you. Start to make it up to yourself for all the time you've lost for your own life's fulfillment.

3. Get a lawyer. Consult the legal aid society (listed in the phone book) and see what arrangements can be made for you and your brother (the rat!) to share costs for your mother's care. See if he can be forced to reimburse you for past costs. Your mother is HIS problem, too.

4. Grow up! If, at your age, you still feel dominated by parents, then you need professional counseling. A clergyman (WITH counseling credentials) is a good choice, or your county mental health society (see your phone book) can refer you — probably for no fee.

5. When your mother starts her tirades, leave the room and close the door behind you. Turn the radio or TV REALLY LOUD. Go for a walk. Getting out of the house can do wonders. I am — Praying For You In Buffalo

Rabbits also get hairballs

DEAR DR. MILLER: Both of my cats have trouble with hairballs from time to time, if I don't keep them combed. My new pet, Ricky, has a lot of loose hair, and I wonder if he could ever get hairballs. He's a rabbit. — W.R.

DEAR W.R.: Regard Ricky rabbit as a hairball candidate, also. Grooming him to reduce the amount of hair consumed would have the same beneficial effects in reducing hairball problems as it does for your felines.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Dinky, our puppy, has had an upset stomach lately, and I'm adding yogurt to his diet in the hope it will help him. Are the chances good? — C.K.

DEAR C.K.: Yogurt, particularly if it's made without preservatives, could reduce Dinky's digestive disturbance, especially if it were a dietary problem. Since gastrointestinal problems in puppies can be caused by anything from ingested foreign materials to infections to parasites, to poisons, to a prodigious list of other problems, professional help should be sought when the problem persists.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My little canary is having a hard time of it. Has been, for a couple of weeks now. Dumpy, and dragging around, with no interest in things. I've been giving it a chance, waiting to see if it was going to be able to bounce back, but I really wonder how long I should let it go on like this. How much longer should I wait before cutting its head off? I mention that form of putting it to sleep only because I've been told it's really quite humane, especially if you use a heavy pair of scissors. One quick snip. — R.L.

DEAR R.L.: When your canary should be beheaded is probably academic by now, since most birds in obvious distress for the described period of time would probably be dying anyway — as yours probably has. For future reference, however, if you're interested in a sick bird's survival, rather than waiting to see if it can make it on its own, better have a veterinarian check it at the first sign of trouble. The bird has a better chance of making it then, particularly if given appropriate treatment and nursing care.

In cases where euthanasia (the term for "easy" death) is the only course or is the course you choose, it's certainly kinder to do it before the bird goes through a prolonged period of suffering. Incidentally, veterinarians performing euthanasia usually utilize a quick, painless injection.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Anthony and Cleo, our pigeons, coo and gurgle a lot. It's quite touching. We're hoping they'll get around to doing something else, like raising a family. If they do, will their babies coo, too? — R.O.

DEAR R.O.: While some babies coo, surprisingly few pigeon babies do — they squeak.

Joe Firman

Finders keepers, losers weepers

One is always losing things. This one is, anyway. Somewhere in Pomona at this very instant there repose a grey raincoat, a small camera, some car keys, a red pullover sweater and handfuls of change that I have lost — dropped, misplaced, forgotten. Around the home I haven't been losing things so frequently since the kids moved out, but when four teen-agers buzzed in the family hive, I couldn't go a day without losing a pen, scissors, paint brush, hammer, roll of tape, six-pack of beer. I'm what is known as "a loser."

I have never, however, lost a continent, so there! I may not know my way home, but I cannot charge myself with ever having misplaced a whole continent. I've had my pocket picked and I once lost my car for a couple of hours on the Anaheim Stadium parking lot (I was departing about the seventh inning, but couldn't find my car and had to wait till the game was over and everyone else drove off). But I would certainly know a continent if I saw it on the parking lot at the Big A. Probably.

Some years ago the Greek philosopher Plato described the lost continent of Atlantis that dropped into the sea somewhere west of Gibraltar a few milleniums ago, and now two scientists have come up with the theory that there was ANOTHER lost continent, this one in the Pacific Ocean some 200 million years ago, give or take an eon. Spokesman for the lost continent of Pacifica are Amos Nur, Stanford University geophysicist, and Zvi Ben Avraham of the Israel Oceanographis Institute. (Don't blame me — I'm just reporting the facts.)

Nur told the annual meeting of the American Geophysical Union in Washington, D.C., recently that there is indirect evidence that a continent slightly smaller than Australia began breaking up 200 million years ago and major fragments "fanned out" over the Pacific slamming into North and South America, Alaska, northeastern Russia, Japan and East Asia. This was before the 55 mile an hour limit was ordered.

It boggles the imagination to think of a whole continent caroming about the Pacific like an errant eight-ball, but of course it was very slow, maybe a few inches a century, and undetectable to the resident dinosaurs. Still, when the land mass crunches into another at whatever speed, there are bound to be, er, repercussions. Nur and Zvi say that the collision of the two land masses pushed up the Rocky Mountains and the Andes. When the subcontinent of India eased its way out of the Antarctic and headed north, it crashed into Asia and boosted up the Himalayas.

Nur and Zvi ("Songs and snappy patter! Tomorrow night, 'East Lynn' ") assert that Pacifica was part of the supercontinent, Pangea, which was all the world at one time. Then all the water began coming and Pangea subdivided and sent sections wandering all over the earth looking for a home. Pacifica, if that was REALLY its name, richocheted around the ocean, bumping into other land masses and leaving the submerged plateaus of Minihiki and Ong Java around Australia for the folks to remember it by. Maybe Pacifica is not really lost but just evading extradition abroad and living on secret Swiss bank accounts.

Any day in the lost and found column of our favorite daily we may see: "LOST: One continent, medium size. Answers to the name Pacifica. Last seen careening about the Pacific Ocean. Reward. No questions asked."

Facts about lung cancer

DEAR DR. LAMB — There is much talk today of lungs, but there are some answers I never get.

In an active child or super athlete do the lungs grow larger than they do in one who spends much time just watching TV or reading?

If a mature person with large lung capacity leads an inactive life does he or she breathe less deeply? Do parts of the lungs go dead?

Does the blood from say the hands, get renewed by going to a certain part of the lungs only?

When one lung is removed can the other really do a complete job?

We read of overventilation, what happens with underventilation?

DEAR READER — The lungs have a range of capacity. When you are sitting still you need far less oxygen than when you are jogging. In those circumstances the lungs need ventilate only as much air as needed to provide that small amount of oxygen. When you are exercising or working hard the body needs more oxygen and the lungs exchange more air to provide the increased amount of oxygen.

Since the lungs are really storage chambers for air it is true that exercising them to the maximum capacity will help improve their capacity. That is why a vigorous athlete tends to have a greater lung capacity than a sedentary individual. This won't make any difference when they are both sitting still but the guy with unexercised lungs may not be able to sustain as much vigorous work for a long period of time as the athlete. However this effect is not noticed with short periods of exertion.

No, parts of the lung do not go dead from lack of use but the capacity to stretch to the maximum might be limited.

No, blood from the hands or any particular part of the body does not go to just one part of the lung. All of the oxygen-poor blue-blood collects in the right side of the heart and is mixed there. All of this blood is then carried to the lungs through one artery — the pulmonary artery which divides into smaller and smaller arteries to distribute the mixed blood to the lungs.

When a lung is removed it simply limits the amount of lung available to exchange air. The remaining healthy lung is quite adequate to provide ventilation and oxygen exchange for all of the mixed oxygen-poor blood at rest and with reasonable amounts of exertion. As the amount of lung tissue is removed the effect is really noticed in the limitation of the amount of exertion that a person can do.

To give you more information on how the lungs work I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-4, Keeping Your Lungs Fit. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

Underventilation leads to a build up of carbon dioxide in the body. This affects the chemical balance and can cause an increased tendency to sleep. You sometimes see this in very overweight people. In extreme underventilation as with emphysema the build-up eventually can cause very serious problems.

Many ways to cook spuds

How many different ways do you know how to cook potatoes, young lady? A teacher of chefs says no woman should consider herself a good cook unless she can come up with at least a dozen different potato-preparation techniques. Numerous cookbooks list as many as 100 ways, incidentally.

WINE AND SALAD

Q. "Why aren't you supposed to drink wine with a vinegar-and-oil salad that contains hard-boiled egg slices?"

A. Because the egg slices contain sulphur. That dulls the taste. And the vinegar taints the flavor of any wine. Or so say the gourmets.

Q. "How come all the baseball umpires are always smaller than the baseball players?"

A. They're not. Just looks that way. The umpires wear dark clothing usually, the players light. That creates an optical illusion.

Q. "What's the estimated life expectancy of a kitchen range?"

A. Depends on its whereabouts. In the country, 13 years. In the city, 16 years. Rural folk cook more.

MATH QUIZ

Try this one on the math genius in your family: "The boss said, 'I spent one sixth of my years on a peanut farm in Georgia, one twelfth in the Navy, one seventh plus five in politics, which takes me up to the time when Mary was born. She got married four years ago when she was but half my present age. How old am I?' " If the aforementioned family math genius says 84 years old, give that party first prize.

Certainly you know the first man to sign the Declaration of Independence, was John Hancock, but can you name the fellow who was second to sign it? Samuel Adams leaped up for that distinction.

Jacoby's bridge

Weird hand takes weird play

Opening lead — 10 ♠

Today's hand from the Lukacs-Rubens book looks like some sort of a joke hand which it really is. Unless either clubs or diamonds break 4-0 against you there are 13 easy tricks.

There is a perfect safety play in clubs. You win the first trick with dummy's ace of spades and play dummy's king of clubs to retain a finesse against either opponent. East shows out so you will normally plan to play East for all four diamonds in case that suit won't break. So you come to your hand with the king of spades, lead a club to dummy's 10, cash dummy's ace of hearts, come to your hand with the king and pause for further study when West drops a spade.

East has started with eight hearts and at least two spades. He can't hold four diamonds so you play your ace of diamonds and East shows out. Now you lead the 10 of diamonds, cover West's jack with the king or queen, run off your clubs, take a finesse against the nine of diamonds and make your whimsical grand slam.

Ask the Jacobys

An Iowa reader wants to know the difference between short club and artificial club.

The short club (always at least three in expert circles) is a convenience bid. Partner may pass.

The artificial club is a forcing opening bid and has nothing at all to do with clubs.

Heavy drinking in modern U.S. Navy—it's all a myth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's top doctor wants to bury ancient myths that glamorize the hard-drinking sailor.

"There is nothing happy about the traditional 'happy hours' ashore where a person is encouraged to drink in lieu of more productive or wholesome pastimes," Vice Adm. W.P. Arentzen said in a letter to medical unit commanders.

"Our seafaring tradition includes rituals with heavy drinking, based on tenacious myths that heavy drinking signifies vigor and promotes good fellowship," the Navy surgeon general wrote.

"Such folklore stemming from the days of the galleons has no place in modern medicine in a modern Navy."

Arentzen urged Navy doctors to take the lead in deglamorizing liquor and in curbing "irresponsible drinking in the Navy."

The Navy banned liquor from its ships about 60 years ago, but officials are concerned that some sailors drink too liberally while ashore. Although Pentagon health officials are unable to say whether drinking is more of a problem in the Navy than in the other armed services, Arentzen's letter is an indication of the extent of their concern.

The Navy surgeon general wrote medical officers, "The time has come to focus on prevention, as well as rehabilitation."

"Take a close look at irrational drinking customs at your command. Take remedial action and insist that your staff members act exemplary and responsibly in their consumption of alcohol, or avail themselves of rehabilitation."

Last week, another Navy specialist, Dr. Robert A. Alkov, linked drinking with the flamboyant actions of some Navy pilots, whom he said act out roles contributing to aircraft accidents.

Writing in the naval aviation safety publication "Approach," Alkov summarized a behavioral analysis of 12 pilots involved in fatal accidents in 1975 and 1976.

Alkov said the studies produced a composite profile of a person whose behavior, including excessive drinking, "consists of acting out the role of the archetypal 'hot' pilot fostered by movies, novels and television."

According to Alkov, "the system fosters this type of roleplaying."

"The traditions of aviation, esprit de corps, and camaraderie among aviators create pressures on the impressionable to live out some of the tall tales told at the officer club bar," Alkov wrote.

"These same pressures seem to induce some pilots to drink too much and to attempt flying while fatigued and suffering from hangovers."

Perhaps, Alkov suggested, "We should relegate our World War II movie and TV heroes to the tube and realistically make way for a whole new breed in naval aviation."

Cuba turning to 'microbrigades' to help ease housing shortages

ALAMAR, Cuba (AP) — Rodolfo Nieto is a communications technician, but for the last year he has been working as a bricklayer, part of a 33-man "microbrigade" that is helping to build a new city about five miles east of Havana.

Ultimately, he hopes to live in one of the 30-apartments in the five-story building being put up by his group.

Nieto now lives with his wife and two children in one room in his mother-in-law's house.

"In five years our family has grown," he said. "But the room has remained the same size."

Nieto, 24, is typical of the hundreds of thousands of Cubans who are crowded into unsatisfactory living quarters, and look to new cities such as Alamar to provide them with better housing. Since the government of President Fidel Castro came to power in 1959, the country's population has increased from about 6.5 million to about 9.5 million, despite the departure of some 600,000 exiles.

Only about 200,000 new housing units have been built during this time, accommodating an estimated 900,000 people.

To cope with the problem, the Cuban government has turned to the "microbrigades." These are groups of non-construction workers detached from their regular jobs to build homes for themselves and their colleagues. Those who stay behind at the office or factory are expected to do the work of the construction crew, and to lend a hand themselves from time to time in the evenings and on weekends.

The government provides standardized plans for the buildings, all raw materials, and initial training in such basics as brick-laying, concrete mixing, and installation of pipes and electrical conduits.

After that, the members of the minibrigades are on their own. In addition to working on their assigned buildings they must also contribute labor to such neighborhood facilities as schools, factories, shops and clinics.

Just being part of a minibrigade, however, is no assurance for getting a new apartment.

"Apartments are assigned by workers' assemblies," says Humberto Ramirez, chief architect for the sprawling Alamar project. "Among the things they consider are a worker's on-the-job performance, his participation in volunteer labor, absenteeism, and his attitude toward others."

A worker's need for housing is also taken into account, Ramirez says, but only after all other factors have been considered.

For Mrs. Andina Garcia who moved into a new three-bedroom apartment in late 1975, need and her husband's work record both played a role.

"My husband headed the mini-brigade which built this building," she said. "Before that we lived for 12 years with some cousins in a two-bedroom apartment." The Garcias have three children, ranging in age from 2½ to 12.

Garcia's regular job is supervision of recycling facilities at a tin factory.

Although Alamar's apartments — all identically laid out — are relatively small and Spartan, with rough walls and simple plumbing facilities, Mrs. Garcia and her neighbors revel in the privacy and comfort of having their own kitchen and bathroom.

"I am enchanted with it," said Mrs. Garcia in an interview in her living room-dining room.

Tenants at Alamar and similar projects throughout Cuba pay a rent equivalent to 6 per cent of the family head's salary, or the salary of the family member who was awarded the apartment.

When completed in 1985, Alamar will cover an area of about 3.5 square miles and is expected to have a population of about 150,000 in apartment buildings of 5, 12 and 20 stories respectively. It will have factories employing several thousand women, and nurseries for their children. There will also be schools, restaurants, movie theaters, five medical centers, and a fleet of buses linking Alamar with Havana and other suburbs, as well as providing local services.

So far 6,300 apartments have been built at Alamar, and 3,000 more are under construction. A factory making school childrens' uniforms is already open, and employs 600 residents. A shirt factory which will employ 1,000 women and a smaller candy factory are under construction, and plans are being made for a central kitchen to prepare an average of 12,000 lunches a day for all of Alamar's schools.

Alamar is Cuba's showcase housing project, and one to which foreign visitors are most frequently taken. But there are others dotting the island. Most are identical in design, and most have been built by "microbrigades," leaving regular construction crews free to work on factories, hospitals and other nonresidential projects.

Lawyer group fete

The newly-formed Eastern Bar Association will install its recently-elected officers at a dinner dance Saturday night at the South Hills Country Club in West Covina.

The Eastern Bar Association was created recently when the Pomona Valley Bar Association and the Citrus Bar Association voted to merge. The area represented by the association generally lies within the East District of the Los Angeles County Superior Court headquartered in Pomona.

Marshall Hadley of Baldwin Park was elected the association's first president with Robert Chrisman of Covina first vice president, Carroll McCourtney of Covina the second vice president, David Holtz of El Monte the secretary and Paul Mahoney of Pomona the assistant treasurer.

Other local attorneys elected to office were H. George Taylor, Pomona, and Barry Plotkin, Pomona, directors.

The officers will be installed by Pomona Superior Court Judge Francis Garvey. Pomona Superior Court Judge Carlos M. Teran also will participate in the program.

Chaffey field trip

Thirty students and two counselors in the Chaffey Joint Unified High School District's work experience program will get an inside look at the Air Force June 27 through 30 when they are guests at Norton Air Force Base, San Bernardino, according to Sgt. Allen Williamson, Ontario Air Force recruiter.

Williamson said the students will be briefed on the mission of the Air Force and will get an inside look at some of the vocational and technical fields available.

The students will see the various maintenance shops that keep aircraft flying, a flight simulator, the loading and unloading of C-141 aircraft, the law enforcement complex, and the work of the air traffic controllers.

They also will see the production of an Air Force training film at the Aerospace Audiovisual Studio.

The Recruiting Service June 29 will host a dinner where Gen. James L. Wade, the commander of the 452nd Air Refueling Wing, will welcome the visitors.

Valley Democrats plan forum

The United Democrats of the Pomona Valley is holding a public forum Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Claremont Public Library Community Room on "Expo 81 — Pollution for Profit?"

Featured speaker will be Claremont City Councilwoman Eleanor Cohen. Other officials will be present to give their views of the subject.

CONSTRUCTION WORKERS are dwarfed by the size of the 110-foot-diameter reservoir being constructed for the Walnut Valley Water District on the westerly side of the Orange Freeway in Diamond Bar. District general manager Ed Biederman explained that since the 1 2.27-million-gallon reservoir is for distribution storage, the Metropolitan Water District will allow for the extraordinary filling. Biederman said that the reservoir holds six to seven acre-feet, a small portion of the district's normal usage of 700 acre-feet a month. The 32-foot-high tank will be topped with an aluminum geodesic roof.

CHAFFEY COLLEGE is sponsoring two conferences on media careers, entitled "How Do You Get in the Business?"

The first conference on Friday will focus on film careers. Speakers will be Jonathan Kaplan, a writer-director, and Eileen Bodie, a film producer for the Signode Corp. of Chicago.

The second conference on June 17 will concentrate on the radio/television industry. The speakers will be Virginia Carter, vice president, Creative Development for Norman Leer's T.A.T. Communications Co., Paul Dandridge, KNBC news reporter, and Phil Robinson, a radio announcer and television writer-director.

The free public presentations and question and answer sessions will be from 10 a.m. to noon in the Chaffey College Theatre.

June is "Library Forgiveness Month" at MT. SAN ANTONIO COLLEGE.

Persons who have library books, may return them to the library during June without fine.

The method is being used to retrieve some of the hundreds of books checked out during past years but never returned. With the prices of books increasing each year, the library budget could not possibly afford to replace the missing volumes and still continue to add the many necessary new books each year, said Librarian William Hoffman.

Hoffman said there will be no questions asked of anyone who returns books checked out prior to June 1, 1977. "We just want our books back so they may be used by other students in coming semesters."

Books may be deposited at the north side of the library, through the outside book drop, or at any one of the librarian's desks inside the building.

Fines will still accrue to books checked out from June 1 and through the summer session and regular semesters next year.

Claremont Graduate School honors to 185

The Claremont Graduate School presented advanced degrees to 185 students in recent ceremonies.

The institution also awarded two honorary degrees: a doctor of humane letters degree to Ralph W. Tyler, vice president of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, and a doctor of laws degree to Lawrence R. Tollenaere, president of Ameron and vice chairman of the Claremont University Center Board of Fellows.

Tyler was the speaker at the ceremony, addressing the students on "Can Our Schools and Colleges Meet the Challenges They Face?" The rites were held Sunday in Garrison Theater of the Claremont Colleges.

CGS awarded 55 doctorates, 17 master of fine arts degrees and 113 master of arts degrees. The school also honored 173 students who received their degrees in February without ceremony.

The convocation for the awarding of higher degrees was the first for Joseph B. Platt as president of Claremont University Center. CGS is the academic entity of the university center. Platt conferred the degrees, and board chairman Thornton Bradshaw presented the diplomas.

Person-to-person

VANCE J. MINGUS of Pomona has received the "Distinguished Toastmaster" award, the highest member recognition of Toastmasters.

To receive such an award, a Toastmaster member must have held a leadership position within his club and fulfilled the requirements of holding a district office, participated in community activities, and completed the Toastmasters communication and leadership program.

Mingus is a member and former president of the Ontario-Upland Toastmasters Club, and served as district governor in 1969-70. He is the administrative director for Conchemco, Inc., Los Angeles.

In announcing the award, Robert W. Blakeley, president of Toastmasters International, reported that less than 550 individuals have earned this distinction.

GEORGE C. KLOTZ, aency manager for Lutheran Mutual Life Insurance Co. in Montclair, has been elected a regional trustee of the California Association of Life Underwriters.

Klotz entered the life insurance business in 1974 and is now president of the Pomona Valley Association of Life Underwriters.

As regional trustee, he will coordinate the activities of some 600 life and health insurance producers in four local associations, extending from Covina into San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

Klotz was named Montclair's Citizen of the Year in 1975, and is currently chairman of the Montclair Community Action Committee and vice president of the Montclair Optimist Club. He is active in the Christ Lutheran Church in Chino. He and his wife, Liz, and their three children reside in Montclair.

INGRID THIEL has been appointed operations officer of Bank of America's Monrovia branch.

Miss Thiel, who joined the bank's Lake-Green branch in Pasadena as a bookkeeper in 1959, rose to the position of assistant operations officer by 1970. She had been operations officer of the Altadena branch since 1973.

She succeeds Jackie Mangana who has become operations officer of the bank's Claremont branch.

She now lives in Glendora.

First citizen

The first U.S. citizen to be declared a saint by the Roman Catholic Church was Frances Xavier Cabrini (1850-1917). Mother Cabrini, a naturalized U.S. citizen, born in Italy, was canonized in 1946.

City hall beat

Claremont Community Services Department will hold dance recitals at Sycamore Elementary School today and Thursday at 7 p.m.

No admission is charged.

Tonight, Welthalee Keenan's students will show their talents in tap, acrobatics, and modern jazz on which they have been working since January. Students range in age from 3 to adults.

Ballet, tap, jazz, belly dancing, Irish step dancing, and Polynesian groups will show off their talents Thursday on the Sycamore stage. Teachers are Kathy Hornbaker, Helen Rae Terzo, Maggie Cupini, Jean Emanuel, and Doris Fritz.

Emil Torkar, a Chino resident and Claremont businessman, has been chosen chairman of the Chino Planning Commission for the coming year.

Torkar was appointed chairman by unanimous consent of other commissioners at the May 16 planning commission meeting. He succeeds Betty Cavanagh in the post.

The regularly scheduled meeting of the West Valley Transit Service Authority this month will be held in the Chino City Council Chambers rather than in Montclair.

Due to the construction going on at the Montclair Civic Center, the transit group will meet June 16 at 3:15 p.m. in the Chino chambers. The meeting is open to the public.

The Chino Recreation Commission will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Chino City Council Chambers.

All interested persons are invited to attend. For more information call the recreation and parks department at 627-7344.

Bill Sims, West Covina, was recently elected president, with Dick Brame, West Covina, elected treasurer.

Now a traditional early summer "stag" for some 600 men of the East San Gabriel Valley, the steak fry started 24 years ago when a small group of civic leaders gathered at the estate of Dr. Carl L. Moller in Glendora for a "most informal get-together of good fellows."

Through the years, the benefit has contributed more than $40,000 to the Covina hospital.

Forty men from local communities make up the Men's Club Committee planning and hosting the event. JOHNNY WONDER

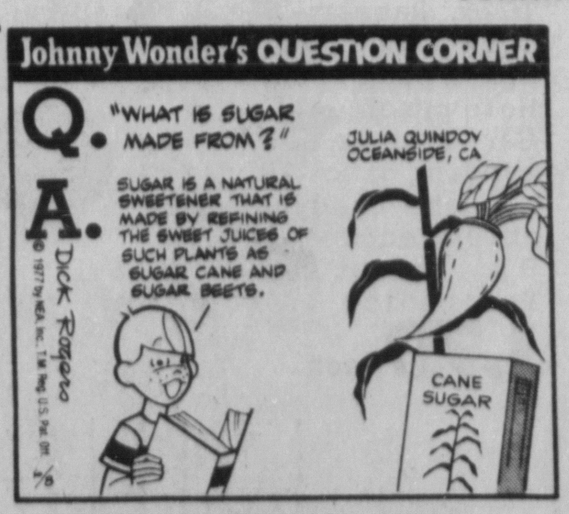
Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER



Sugar is a natural sweetener that is found in all green plants. Most of the sugar we use for sweetening our foods comes from sugar cane and sugar beets.

Sugar cane is a tall grass plant that looks much like corn. It grows in such warm lands as Hawaii and Puerto Rico. In making sugar from sugar cane, the stalks are crushed and the sweet juice is pressed out of them. The juice is boiled until it becomes a thick, brown syrup.

Most of the sugar in the syrup forms into large crystals. The syrup is whirled in drums to separate the sugar crystals from the syrup.

To obtain pure white sugar, the raw sugar is dissolved in water and filtered to remove any remaining syrup. When a clear, colorless liquid is obtained, the sugar is recrystallized, dried and then packaged.

The thick syrup left after refining is called molasses.

Sugar is made from the large, sweet roots of the sugar beets in about the same way.

Some states giving energy-saving taxpayers a break

By PATRICK ARNOLD
Associated Press Writer

Prodded by the spectre of decreasing fossil fuels, legislatures in several states are giving homeowners a break for tapping alternative energy sources ranging from solar heat to cow manure.

The benefits already established range from property tax exemptions to income tax deductions to cash rebates under a federal program.

Of the current laws passed this year a number won't go into effect until next year, and some other states have programs in the legislative mill.

While most of the tax break laws were originated by the states and provide for property or income tax deductions, the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development has a new $10 million program to provide $400 rebates to residents in 11 states who install alternative energy sources.

The plan, which sets limits on the number of rebates given in each state, covers only the 11 states with the highest electricity rates. They include Florida, Rhode Island, Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and the southern counties of New York. In Florida, 1,650 grants will be made. Massachusetts will receive 1,375 grants.

The current Indiana law allows homeowners to deduct the value of their alternative energy systems up to a $2,000 limit. A revised law, which takes effect next Jan. 1, allows the full value of the system to be deducted.

In Connecticut and Nevada homeowners are allowed to deduct the added value of their home caused by installation of the alternative system. In Connecticut, the deduction may be claimed for 15 years if the system is installed by 1991. The law is enabling legislation allowing cities and towns to grant the exemptions, and so far 47 have agreed to do so. It can apply to solar heating, water power or windmills.

The Nevada statute provides deductions of up to $2,000 for any type of alternative system, including tapping into a hot spring or generating power from cow manure.

Virginia passed a measure this year allowing communities to treat solar energy equipment as a separate classification for taxation and gives communities the ability to exempt such devices to whatever extent they decide. The law goes into effect July 1, 1978.

New Mexico, Hawaii, Arkansas, Kansas and Montana have laws allowing income tax deductions for alternative energy systems or energy saving equipment.

Hawaii, which passed its legislation last year, grants an income tax credit of 10 per cent of the cost of a solar energy device. It also allows a homeowner to deduct the cost of installing any alternative energy source from the total assessed valuation of the home. Nuclear energy is excluded specifically under the statute.

The Kansas bill, which Gov. Robert F. Bennett wants revised next year, allows for reimbursement of 35 per cent of the property tax paid for up to five successive years on a building or addition to an existing structure that is equipped with a solar system capable of generating at least 70 per cent of the structure's energy requirements.

Bennett complains that the measure would require development of yet another tax form and also says it would be hard to determine just how much energy 70 per cent of a structure's requirement would come to.

Montana's new law provides a 10 per cent income tax credit on the first $1,000 and 5 per cent on the next $3,000 of the cost of a non-fossil fuel system, while New Mexico gives a maximum $1,000 income tax credit on the cost of solar energy system installations.

The Arkansas legislature passed a bill giving homeowners an income tax break for energy saving equipment. Starting this year, homeowners can deduct from their gross incomes the full purchase and installation costs of "insulation, storm doors or windows, motor-driven power vents and solar heating and cooling equipment."

Bills were introduced in a number of other state legislatures but did not clear this session.

South Carolina, for instance, had one measure that would have granted an income tax credit for installing solar heating systems.

In California, the Assembly approved a measure that would exempt solar heating equipment from property taxes for five years. The bill had amendments made in it and has gone back to the state Senate for concurrence.

The Ohio legislture is working on a measure that would grant property tax exemptions for wind and solar power generating equipment, while Maine lawmakers are working on a comprehensive energy program which may include tax breaks.

In Louisiana, the state Senate has approved a measure exempting the purchase or rental price of solar energy equipment from the state sales tax. Louisiana has no state property tax and all homes under $50,000 assessed valuation will be exempt from parish (county) property taxes beginning next year.

The much-acclaimed "Michel Guerard's Cuisine Minceur" has won top honors in the 11th annual Tastemaker Awards Competition sponsored by the R.T. French Company of Rochester, New York.

The cookbook earned separate honors as the top cookbook published in the United States during 1976, as best entry in the competition's foreign and/or American regional category, and best entry by a first-time cookbook author. The author also earned a prize of $500.

Guerard, an internationally renowned chef who operates his own restaurant in Eugenie-les-Bains, France, wrote the book in support of his thesis that fine French cooking need not be fattening. "Michel Guerard's Cuisine Minceur," published by William Morrow Co., is a collection of the author's low cal recipes he serves at his cafe in Southern France. All are based on classic principles of French cooking.

The selection of Guerard's book was made by the vote of some 297 newspaper and magazine food editors, cookbook authors, editors and publishers who participated in the nationwide balloting. The ballot included 85 books.

Five other books won Tastemaker category awards including the works of authors Nika Hazelton and Mable Hoffman who each earned Tastemakers for the second time.

The category winners were:

BASIC AND/OR GENERAL "The Six-Minute Souffle and Other Culinary Delights" by Carol Cutler of Washington, D.C., published by Clarkson N. Potter, Inc.

SPECIALTY: "The Unabridged Vegetable Cookbook" by Nika Hazelton of New York, published by M. Evans Co.

ENTERTAINING: "The Pleasure of Your Company" by Diana and Paul von Welanetz of Los Angeles, California, published by Atheneum.

HEALTH AND NUTRITION: "The Slim Gourmet" by Barbara Gibbons of Verona, New Jersey, published by Harper & Row.

SOFT COVER: "Crepe Cookery" by Mable Hoffman of Solana Beach, California, published by H.P. Books.

In addition, the Tastemaker Award Committee, which screens the nominations and establishes guidelines, voted its Special Award to "The Joy of Cooking," one of America's classic cookbooks. "The Joy of Cooking" by the late Irma Rombauer was first published in 1931 and has been continuously updated since that time by members of her family. "Joy" is still in print and still serving the needs of millions of homemakers. It is published by Robbs-Merrill Co., Inc.

The special award to "The Joy of Cooking" qualifies it to enter the recently established R.T. French Cookbook Hall of Fame at the College for Human Development of Syracuse University where valuable memorabilia and priceless first editions will be housed.

Like "Michel Guerard's Cuisine Minceur," many of this year's top books reflected a renewed interest in foreign and sophisticated cooking while at the same time emphasizing ease of preparation or low caloric content.

In "The Six-Minute Souffle and Other Culinary Delights," Carol Cutler, veteran of Paris' Cordon Bleu and one of the first American women to be admitted to the Cercle des Gourmettes, reveals how to turn out impeccably elegant meals in minutes. The Washington writer demonstrates that sophisticated recipes can be done on the run.

Nika Hazelton's "The Unabridged Vegetable Cookbook" is a two-in-one guide to fresh vegetables and more than 250 ways to prepare them, reflecting Mrs. Hazelton's lifetime preference for vegetables over all other foods. The book takes in virtually every aspect of the vegetable family from the ordinary to the exotic. Mrs. Hazelton won her first Tastemaker in 1975 for "I Cook as I Please," top book that year in the Basic and/or General category.

In "The Pleasure of Your Company," authors Diana and Paul von Welanetz have incorporated their belief that hosts should enjoy the pleasure of elegant entertaining, the thrust of their Los Angeles cooking school that has attracted numerous Hollywood celebrities. The book includes carefully detailed instructions and time schedules, allowing preparation of complex recipes in a relaxed manner.

"The Slim Gourmet" by nationally syndicated columnist Barbara Gibbons is a collection of "everybody's fattening favorites" with nothing but the calories removed. As the book jacket describes, it's the new cuisine . . . decalorized for good health. It's of use to the ordinary dieter, diabetic, hypoglycemia sufferers, and cholesterol watchers.

Mable Hoffman's "Crepe Cookery" contains 200 tested crepe recipes made from 26 different batters for an array of appetizers, main dishes and desserts. Included are facts on crepe equipment and instructions on filling, shaping and the creation of crepe enhancing sauces. The Californian also won a Tastemaker last year in the soft cover category for her "Crockery Cookery."

Schrader, Chairman; Carol Brock of New York News; David Goodnough of Arco Publishing Company; Virginia Habeeb, author; Bea Moore of Simon and Schuster; Olga Rigsby of Seventeen Magazine; Constance Schrader of Harcourt Brace and Jovanovich; Jean Anne Vincent of Doubleday & Company; and Rita P. South-of-border fare

Acapulco stuffed pears with fudge sauce ole set

After a rich party menu, a cooling sweet dessert is just the ticket. In fact, south of the border, it's traditional to cap a spicy feast of tacos, enchiladas, rice and beans with delicate fruit-and-cream combinations, many featuring pears.

High in nutrition, relatively low in calories, canned pears add variety and appetite appeal to any meal — they're a great value all year long. Sweetened condensed milk, that versatile food base, complements the flavor of this popular fruit. Together, they're the key to countless tasty, quick and easy dessert recipes.

For a refreshing finale, try "Acapulco stuffed Pears with Fudge Sauce Ole!" Sweetened condensed milk gives smooth consistency to both the filling and the rich, fudgy sauce — it blends particularly well with chocolate so texture should be excellent.

Light tangy-sweet "Fiesta Pear Ambrosia" doubles as a showpiece salad. Sweetened condensed milk provides a delicate bond to harmonize other ingredients and highlight that distinctive pear flavor. Because it thickens immediately with lemon juice without heating, you can be sure this frozen mold will hold its shape.

Or dazzle them with "South - of - the - Border Cinnamon - Pear Cheesecake." Sweetened condensed milk thickens almost instantly with lemon juice to help insure a super-creamy base, set off by a buttery crumb crust. Pear halves and cinnamon candies combine in a peppy, ruby-hued glaze.

ACAPULCO STUFFED PEARS WITH FUDGE SAUCE OLE!

ACAPULCO STUFFED PEARS

14 to 16 canned pear halves, drained (reserve syrup)
2 packages (3 ounce) cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons chopped pecans
1/3 cup sweetened condensed milk
Chopped pecans

In small bowl, blend together cheese, 2 tablespoons pecans and sweetened condensed milk. Spread cheese mixture generously over cut edges of 7 or 8 pear halves. Top each with another pear half, pressing gently. Chill.

FUDGE SAUCE OLE!

1 square (1 ounce) unsweetened chocolate
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/3 cup pear syrup
1 cup sweetened condensed milk
Dash salt
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Melt chocolate and butter in pear syrup over medium heat. Stir in sweetened condensed milk, salt and vanilla. Cook, stirring constantly, until smooth and thickened. Place stuffed pears upright in individual goblets. Spoon hot chocolate sauce over pears; sprinkle with pecans. Refrigerate remaining sauce; serve over ice cream.

FIESTA PEAR AMBROSIA

1 can (29 ounce) pear halves
1 can (14 ounce) sweetened condensed milk
1 cup sour cream (8 ounces)
1 can (6 ounce) frozen unsweetened orange juice concentrate, thawed and undiluted
1 tablespoon reconstituted lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1/2 cup shredded or flaked coconut
1/4 cup chopped nuts
Lettuce
Orange slices

Drain pears, Reserve 4 halves for garnish, dice remaining pears. Combine diced pears, sweetened condensed milk, sour cream concentrate, lemon juice, rind, coconut and nuts. Pour into aluminum foil-lined loaf pan. Freeze 5 hours or until firm. Unmold on lettuce-lined platter. Cut reserved pears in half, lengthwise; use with orange slices to garnish salad. Makes eight servings.

SOUTH-OF-THE-BORDER CINNAMON-PEAR CHEESECAKE

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 cup graham cracker crumbs
1/4 cup sugar
2 packages (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 can (14 ounces) sweetened condensed milk
3 eggs, separated
1/4 cup reconstituted lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 can (16 ounce) pear halves
2 tablespoons red cinnamon candies
1 tablespoon cornstarch

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In small saucepan, melt butter; stir in crumbs and sugar. Pat crumbs firmly on bottom of buttered 9 inch springform or 9 inch square baking pan. Bake 7 minutes; cool while preparing filling. Reduce oven temperature to 300 degrees. In large mixer bowl, beat cream cheese until light and fluffy. Add sweetened condensed milk and egg yolks; beat until smooth. Stir in lemon juice; set aside. Beat egg whites with salt to soft peaks. Fold into sweetened condensed milk mixture; turn into prepared pan. Bake 50 to 55 minutes or until cake springs back when lightly touched about 1 inch from center. Cool slightly. Chill. Drain pears, reserving syrup. Slice each pear half lengthwise into 8 pieces. Combine cornstarch with 1/4 cup syrup. In small saucepan combine remaining syrup and candies; heat and stir until candy dissolves. Add cornstarch mixture; heat and stir until clear and slightly thickened. Arrange pear pieces around edge of cake. Cover with glaze. Chill. Refrigerate leftovers.

Sweet Potatoes

Slice leftover whole sweet potatoes into baking dish; dot with butter and sprinkle with chopped almonds and a few chocolate mini chips; bake until hot through. Perfect with sliced cold turkey or ham!

Eggs are cheap, versatile

Two-egg omelet is bargain despite rising food costs

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Maybe the cost of food is rocketing, but you can still make a dish fit for a gourmet for about 25 cents. The answer is a two-egg omelet.

Eggs are not only cheap, they are one of the most delicious and versatile of foods. And they contain protein of high quality. Which probably explains why Americans eat more than 60 billion of them each year.

Europeans don't limit themselves to hens' eggs. In Britain plovers' eggs are considered a delicacy and in France I had some difficulty getting used to ducks' eggs. But in this country we pretty much stick to the kind produced by the chicken.

Americans have been criticized by their overseas cousins for showing lack of imagination in preparing eggs. And it's true that fried, boiled or scrambled predominate on our breakfast tables. But we also produce the superb Eggs Benedict and I have had some extraordinary omelets from the kitchens of very unpretentious restaurants while driving around the country.

The making of omelets can be traced back for centuries in a number of countries including ancient China, Rome, Spain, modern Italy, Germany and France. The chefs of each land usually have a distinctive way of making an omelet.

The Italian omelet, for instance, tends to be more spicy and less delicate in structure than the feathery product of France.

Eggs are a key part of the Turkish cuisine and in olden times they were served at lunch or dinner as a first course. During Ramadan, a sacred month on the Mohammedan calendar, the faithful fast from sunup to sundown. Then at dusk they eat eggs fried with chopped meat and onions to break the fast.

Here's an egg dish I learned from a friend who made it to use up all those colored hard-boiled eggs she had made for her children at Easter. It is called Deviled Eggs Supreme.

8 hard-boiled eggs, shelled
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons chopped pimiento
6 ounces processed Gruyere cheese, shredded
1 package (10 oz.) frozen peas
1 cup boiling water
1 envelope instant chicken broth
½ stick butter
1 medium-sized onion, chopped
½ cup sifted all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons curry powder
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
1 cup milk
4 cups hot cooked rice

Halve eggs lengthwise; remove yolks and press through coarse sieve into small bowl; blend in mayonnaise; ½ teaspoon salt, dry mustard, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, chopped pimiento and ¼ cup shredded cheese. Stuff into egg-white halves. Cook peas, drain and set aside. Dissolve instant chicken broth in boiling water and reserve. Melt butter in medium saucepan, saute onion till tender. Stir in flour, remaining salt, remaining pepper, curry powder and ginger. Cook, stirring constantly, till bubbly. Stir in dissolved chicken broth and milk. Continue cooking and stirring till sauce thickens and bubbles 1 minute. Remove from heat; stir in remaining cheese till melted. Add peas. Spoon cooked hot rice into heated serving dish. Spoon suace over it. Arrange eggs around edge of dish. Serves 4. Good with chilled dry white wine.

Add a flair to family fare

By Helen Houston Boileau

—In making cornbread for stuffing fowl, add chopped onion and celery to the batter.

—Add a tablespoon peanut butter to chocolate cake frosting.

—Float a paper thin slice of lemon or hard boiled egg atop a hearty soup.

—Scrape bananas with a dull knife after peeling them and they will not darken so quickly.

—Serve a shrimp a la king on top of crisp waffles.

—Brown sliced French bread slices in garlic and a little butter and use them as topping on a meat pie.

—Add a drop or two of red food coloring to chocolate icing for a richer, darker appearance.

—Dip sausage links in prepared mustard that has been thinned in a generous amount of French dressing, then broil.

—For light and fluffy pie crusts, use gingerale instead of water.

—Warm raisins in oven before adding them to cake or cookie mixtures and they will not sink to the bottom.

—Spread gingerbread with prepared butterscotch pudding and sprinkle with chopped nuts or coconut.

—Try using tomato soup when making a cake requiring sour milk. Flavor is different and delicious.

Frozen treasure chest of treats

Pesto, ratatouille offer extra items for banquet

It is the small touch, the extra little item or the personal specialty that turns a standard meal into a banquet, the kind you love to serve to company.

With warm weather and the harvest season upon us, this is the time to make use of your freezer to store away a whole treasure chest of such gourmet treats. If you have a garden or an orchard, these are the best of all possible sources for such little treasures. Even if you don't, keep an eye out for good or unusual buys at the market, and stick a plastic bag into your pocket whenever you take a country stroll. You'll be amazed at the bargains that grow free for the picking, when you are prepared to carry them home with you.

Thanks to nature and a little help from our forefathers, such things as wild strawberries, raspberries, black raspberries, blackberries, blueberries, currants, gooseberries and rhubarb can often be found in the wilderness or beside old roadbeds or deserted railroad tracks. Taken home, washed well and frozen with or without a sprinkling of sugar and, oh, how your guests will rave!

Even a handful of tiny wild berries tucked into the freezer now will make a fruit cup spectacular, particularly if you plan to pour a dram of fruit wine into the mixture and let it marinate for an hour or two before serving.

Everyone knows that a large garden pays large dividends. If you garden on a modest scale or even on a terrace, you can spread the bounty across the year. When you make use of your garden vegetables to prepare a special, seasonal dish such as the famous tomato, eggplant and squash concoction, ratatouille, for instance, make enough to serve some cold at once, then freeze the rest to heat and serve at a winter dinner party. Your guests will love you for it. When you pick herbs or parsley, or blend basil into a delicious pesto or puree fresh fruit to make a luscious sauce, use some now and freeze the rest for later.

When storing casseroles, vegetable bakes and dishes such as ratatouille and even peach cobbler, first freeze in a dish. Then package in a plastic storage bag. When freezing small items such as berries, chopped

Innovative recipe

Silvia Lardner's three-way chicken is 'sharing' idea

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

A neighbor of mine has been distributing, to her live-alore friends, a recipe for dividing one lone chicken so it makes three different dishes. Her sister, Silvia Lardner, sent her the directions and they worked so well she decided they ought to be shared.

Silvia Lardner is as innovative in her cooking as she has been in her long career. Years ago when she lived in California she was administrative assistant to a famous film producer and coauthored "I Lost My Girlish Laughter," a book about the Hollywood scene. Later she ran her own real estate firm and designed the interiors of model homes. Nowadays she lives in Scottsdale, Ariz., where she is a trouble-shooter for a one-man conglomerate.

If you follow Silvia's way with one small chicken you'll be able to feed yourself and even guests for a number of meals. How's that for convenience and economy?

SILVIA LARDNER's THREE-WAY CHICKEN

Have on hand a cut-up 2½-pound broiler-fryer to use for Chicken Soup, Chicken Salad and Garlic Chicken.

Chicken Soup: Save the thighs, drumsticks and wings for Garlic Chicken. Cook the liver and eat it. In a large saucepot bring to a boil the rest of the chicken including the heart and gizzard, 4 cups water, a medium onion sliced and separated into rings, a cup each of sliced or julienne carrots and celery, a chicken bouillon cube, a teaspoon each of Sal' and curry powder and two teaspoons of Worcestershire sauce; simmer, covered, until chicken is tender — about 40 minutes. With a slotted spoon, lift out chicken and reserve. To the broth and vegetables in the saucepot add a cup of fine egg noodles; bring to a boil and boil gently, uncovered, just until the noodles are tender. Meanwhile, remove the skin and bones from the chicken and discard. Dice the chicken meat except for one half of the breast which will be used for the Chicken Salad and return to the saucepot; heat. Serve garnished with minced scallions and/or parsley. Makes about 1½ quarts. Any soup not served right away may be frozen in desired size portions.

Chicken Salad: Dice the half of the chicken breast you saved and to it add to taste: minced celery, finely sliced scallion, garlic salt, pepper, tarragon or an herb mixture. Add enough mayonnaise to flavor and moisten but not so much that you cover up the taste of the chicken. Chill. Makes 1 or 2 servings, depending on what you serve it with.

Garlic Chicken: For this use the reserved uncooked drumsticks, thighs and wings. In an electric or rangetop skillet, heat a little oil and add the chicken, skin side down, and 12 yes, 12 cloves of minced garlic; gently brown the chicken on one side; turn and stir the garlic. Sprinkle with pepper, about a teaspoon of a mild herb mixture and a little flour; turn the chicken to blend the flour into the oil. Turn skin side up again and sprinkle with a little Japanese soy sauce; cover and cook gently until tender about 40 minutes, checking occasionally to turn chicken if necessary.

Farmhouse blueberry 'flim flam'

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

June, July and August are satisfying months for the fresh blueberry fan since these are the peak times for this very special berry. Some like their berries for breakfast served in a bowl with milk or cream. Others turn them into fillings for pies and tarts or make jams and sauces to enjoy throughout the year on pancakes, waffles and biscuits. Here is a farmhouse flim flam which is a quickie since it uses a yellow cake mix as a base.

FARMHOUSE FLIM FLAM

1 package (18½ oz.) yellow cake mix
Grated rind of 1 orange
1 quart fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained
1 cup water
½ cup sugar
1/3 cup cornstarch
Juice of ½ lemon
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Prepare cake mix according to package directions adding orange rind to batter. Pour batter into a well greased and floured 11-inch pie pan, flan pan or flueted quiche pan, until pan is two-thirds full. The remaining batter can be baked into cup cakes. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes or until golden brown. Unmold and place on a rack. In a saucepan combine half of the blueberries, water, sugar, cornstarch and lemon juice. Stir over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens. Stir in butter and remaining berries. Cool and then chill. Place cake layer on a platter. Mound blueberry mixture on top of cake. Chill until ready to serve. Serve with whipped cream, if desired. Makes one 11-inch flan. (Frozen blueberries may be used.)

Pork Roast

Now is a good time to serve your family that sumptuous pork roast they've been waiting for. With the fall's increased pork supplies, most cuts, loin roast included, are wearing more attractive price tags than they have for more than a year, according to the Pork Industry Group of the National Live Stock and Meat Board. After purchasing a pork loin roast, be sure to do justice to your investment by cooking it correctly. Recommendations based on university research call for roasting fresh pork cuts such as this to an internal temperature of 170 degrees F. as measured by a roast meat thermometer. Overcooking increases cooking losses and makes for less tender and less juicy meat. A slow oven (325 degrees F.) is recommended.

Pesto—

vegetables or herbs, spread them on a cookie sheet to freeze before bagging. When freezing sauces such as pesto or pureed fruit that you will want to use in small quantities, pour them into ice cube trays or muffin tins. When frozen, drop into a bag and use them cube by cube. When freezing fragile baked goods such as fresh blueberry muffins, leave a cushion of air in the bag before sealing them. Freeze fresh fruits and vegetables in serving-size amounts and leave ½ inch head space to allow for expansion. Always freeze food as quickly as possible. As a speed-up, place each bag against the side or on the bottom of the freezer and wait to stack them when completely frozen.

PESTO II

3 large cloves garlic, finely minced
20 fresh basil leaves, chopped
1¼ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
2/3 cup pignoli (pine nuts), finely chopped (optional)
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup olive oil

Mash together the garlic and basil to make a paste. Beat in the cheese and pignoli. Add the salt and gradually beat in the oil, most easily done in an electric blender. The resulting sauce should be smooth. Toss with cooked, hot noodles or other pasta and serve immediately. Makes about 1½ cups.

Freeze in ice cube trays. When completely frozen, transfer to bag. Remove cube by cube. One cube is probably adequate for noodles for 4. Bring sauce to room temperature in a small bowl (or leave frozen if necessary). Toss with cooked, hot noodles and serve immediately.

RATATOUILLE

1/3 cup olive oil
2 cloves garlic, crushed
1 large onion, sliced into thick rings
4 medium zuccini, sliced
1 medium eggplant, peeled and diced
1 green pepper, seeds removed; cut into rings
4 medium tomatoes, quartered
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ cup black olives (optional)

Heat olive oil in skillet; saute garlic and onion for a few seconds. Add remaining ingredients, except olives. Saute about 15 minutes until tender, turning occasionally to cook thoroughly. Serve hot or cold, garnished with olives, as accompaniment or appetizer. Makes 10 servings. Calories per serving 139

Beef cook-off winner

Baked beef bundles best for busy-day menu

Winners of the area-wide Beef Cook-Off held April in Pomona were announced by chairman Mrs. Bill Messinger of Riverside.

Helen (Mrs. Louis) Novak of Fontana has won top honors with her recipe for "Baked Beef Bundles." She was presented with a $100 check for her efforts.

Second place honors went to Emilia Wayne Holmen, Newport Beach; third place to LaVerne (Mrs. George) Hollapeter, El Segundo; and honorable mention went to Mildred (Mrs. Bill) Klein of Mar Vista.

Making the difficult decision were judges Nadine Lowrey, Home Arts Coordinator for the Los Angeles County Fair; Bob Banfield, news/feature reporter and resident gourmet, KABC-TV Channel 7; and Vern Lanegrasse (The Hollywood Chef), syndicated coulmnist, TV and radio personality and international authority on food and wine.

Mrs. Novak will now compete with winners from eight other areas in the statewide Beef Cook-Off, scheduled June 11 in Davis. The winner of the state contest will represent California in the National Beef Cook-Off Sept. 15-16 in Columbus, Ohio.

Budget cuts of beef were featured in the Cook-Off. Mrs. Novak used ground beef with seasoned stuffing mix, sour cream, mushroom and onion soups to create a special dinner dish.

Mrs. Novak, a resident of Fontana for 29 years, is employed by Kaiser Steel Corporation. Her hobbies are cooking, baking, golf and needlework. She was a finalist in the 1973 Pillsbury Bake-Off, and in 1976 won first place with her cake entry and 2nd place with her pie at the National Orange show. She and her husband have two sons and a granddaughter.

Mrs. Novak says the best thing about her recipe is that it can be prepared in advance — a perfect recipe for a busy day. Why not try "Baked Beef Bundles" today? Mrs. Novak's recipe follows.

BAKED BEEF BUNDLES

2 cups packaged seasoned stuffing mix
2 lbs. ground beef
1 envelope dry onion soup mix
2/3 cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons chopped pimientos
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 can (10½ oz.) cream of mushroom soup
1/3 cup catsup
1/3 cup milk
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 cup shredded process cheddar or American cheese
Paprika
Parsley sprigs

Prepare stuffing mix according to package directions. Set aside.

In a bowl, combine the next 5 ingredients until well mixed; divide into 8 portions. On waxed paper, pat into 6 inch circles. Place ¼ cup stuffing in center of each pattie and draw meat over stuffing, sealing edges.

Arrange patties in a 9 x 13 ungreased pan. Bake, uncovered, in a 350 degree oven for 20 minutes. In the meantime, combine soup, catsup, milk and Worcestershire sauce until blended. Pour over partially baked patties. Spread with shredded cheese; sprinkle lightly with paprika. Return to oven for additional 25 to 30 minutes.

Garnish with parsley sprigs. Serve with cooked vegetables and salad. Serve remaining sauce in a separate bowl.

Makes 6-8 servings. If prepared in advance: Cover beef bundles with foil and refrigerate. Remove foil; bake 5 to 7 minutes longer during the first baking period.

ORANGE KISS-ME CAKE

Reader's request: this dessert won a bake-off prize years ago.

1 large orange
1 cup raisins
1/3 cup walnuts
2 cups sifted flour
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
1 cup milk
2 eggs
1/3 cup sugar mixed with 1 teaspoon cinnamon and ¼ cup finely chopped walnuts

Squeeze the orange and reserve the juice. Using the coarse blade of a food chopper grind the pulp and rind of the squeezed orange together with the raisins and walnuts. Into a large mixing bowl of an electric mixer sift together the flour, sugar, soda and salt; add the shortening and ¾-cup milk and at low speed beat for 1½ minutes. Add the eggs and remaining milk and beat for 1½ minutes. Fold in orange mixture. Turn into a 12 by 8 by 2 inch pan that has been well-greased and lightly floured on the bottom. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean — 40-50 minutes. Drip 1/3 cup of the reserved orange juice over the warm cake. Sprinkle with the sugar-cinnamon-nut mixture.

Berry peachy skillet chicken offers cooking 'enjoyment'

You can spend less time cooking, conserve precious energy and still have the pleasures of a many pot and pan menu by simply using a basic skillet. Here is a versatile trio of delectable dinners prepared with speed and ease in just one stove top skillet. The addition of a salad and a dessert rounds out these menus nicely.

"Berry Peachy Skillet Chicken" is a tasteful and colorful dish which cooks up in less than half an hour. In this recipe, chicken breasts, sweet potatoes, peaches and carrots are piquantly flavored with whole berry cranberry sauce, lemon juice and nutmeg. Not only is it a wholesome dish for a family dinner, but is fine fare for company as well. Serve along a salad of crisp greens mixed with sliced cucumbers and finely chopped scallions lightly tossed with a vinegar and oil dressing. For dessert a cool lemon sherbet would be perfect. For added elegance top it with a bit of creme de menthe liqueur.

For a zesty meat dinner prepare "Cranberry Salisbury Skillet Steaks." The steak patties combine ground chuck with chopped onion and cranberry-orange relish. After browning in a skillet, the patties are cooked along with beef broth, red wine, baby onions, mushrooms and mixed vegetables. Round out this pleasingly seasoned dish with a salad of fresh spinach greens mixed with bits of bacon, and tossed with herbed seasoned French dressing. Add a crusty loaf of bread and a bottle of red wine. For dessert a bowl of fresh fruit and a choice of cheese would be just right.

You're sure to find "Berry Fish 'N Cheese Fillets" a tastefully different dish. This all-in-a-skillet seafood dinner combines a rice mix with cranberry juice cocktail, celery and peas into a flavorsome base in which flounder fillets, rolled with American cheese, are quickly simmered and subtly seasoned. Along with your skillet fillets serve a salad of sliced tomatoes and asparagus topped with a creamy cheese dressing. A bottle of white wine would be a nice accompaniment to your dinner, and for dessert scooped melon balls topping slices of fresh pineapple.

Transfer your dinners to a serving platter if you like, but if you cook with a decorative copper or enamel skillet there's no reason to hesitate using it to serve.

BERRY PEACHY SKILLET CHICKEN

- 4 skinless and boneless chicken breast halves
- Salt and pepper
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 2 large sweet potatoes or yams, peeled and cut into ½ inch thick slices
- 4 Cling peach halves, frozen
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen baby whole carrots
- ½ cup Ocean Spray whole berry cranberry sauce
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- Dash nutmeg

Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Heat butter in large skillet and brown chicken on both sides. Add remaining ingredients and ½ cup water; stir to blend. Cover tightly and simmer for 20 to 25 minutes or until potatoes and carrots are tender.

CRANBERRY SALISBURY SKILLET STEAKS

- 1½ pounds ground chuck
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 onion, chopped
- ½ cup Ocean Spray cranberry-orange relish
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 can (10½ ounce) condensed beef broth
- ½ cup red wine mixed with ¼ cup all-purpose flour
- 1½ cups frozen whole baby onions
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen mixed vegetables
- 12 whole small mushrooms

In a bowl mix chuck, salt, onion and relish. Shape mixture into 4 oval patties. Heat butter in a large skillet. Brown patties on each side. Remove patties from skillet. Stir beef broth and wine into pan drippings. Cook, stirring constantly over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens. Add all vegetables and then patties. Cover and simmer gently for 20 minutes or until vegetables are cooked. Serves 4.

BERRY FISH 'N CHEESE FILLETS

- 1 package (6 ounces) rice and wild rice mix
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2½ cups Ocean Spray cranberry juice cocktail
- 1 cup thinly sliced celery
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas
- 4 flounder fillets
- Salt and pepper
- 4 slices American cheese

In a large skillet, combine rice mix, butter and cranberry juice. Cover and simmer gently for 15 minutes. Stir in celery and peas. Sprinkle flounder with salt and pepper. Place a cheese slice on each fillet and roll up like a jellyroll. Place rolls seam-side down into rice. Cover skillet and simmer for 15 minutes or until fish flakes easily. Serve hot. Serves 4.

Walnut dip

For parties or late night snacks — so easy, so tasty! Combine 1 cup cottage cheese and 1 cup dairy sour cream. Add ½ cup finely chopped, toasted California walnuts and a package of onion-soup mix. Chill. Serve with chips or pieces of fresh vegetables like carrots, celery, cucumber and radishes.

Trying times for Singer

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — These are trying times for Bill Singer.

The former Pomona High star is having shoulder problems. He had been slated to start Tuesday night for Toronto against the Angels but was scratched Sunday.

"I have tendinitis in the front of my right shoulder," he explained as we sat in the Blue Jays' dugout. "I had a shot Sunday from Dr. (Jules) Rasinski."

Rasinski prescribed rest and no throwing for a few days.

"It's a shame because my velocity and my stuff is better this year than it's been in three or four years," Singer added. "Everything was going real well and then my shoulder started to hurt and I lost it all."

The one-time Dodger and Angel fireballer has appeared in 11 games for the expansionist Blue Jays. He has a 2-7 record with a 6.29 earned run average.

After spending seven years with the Dodgers and three with the Angels, Bill was traded to the Texas Rangers after the 1975 season. After starting 10 games for the Rangers last year, he was dealt to the Minnesota Twins as part of the Bert Blyleven trade. Minnesota made him available in the expansion draft and Toronto took him third.

"I wasn't surprised at going in the expansion draft," he said with a smile. "I knew Calvin Griffith (Twins owner). I had a multi-year contract (from the Rangers) and there's no way Calvin would pay anybody but (Rod) Carew any money."

Singer apparently likes Toronto and the Blue Jays but minces no words when California pops up in his conversation.

"It would be nice to be home," he admitted. "I live about five miles from Anaheim Stadium (in Villa Park) and it would be nice playing out here. But in baseball, you play where you have to.

"Toronto is a very expensive city in which to live. But it's a super clean city and it's a super safe city. It is one of the best franchises in baseball and it will continue to be. The fans are great. They haven't had a winning team in hockey or football. But they sell 40,000 season tickets for football and hockey games have been sold out for years."

In Toronto, the Hotel Toronto is Bill's home. His wife and family remain at their home in Villa Park.

"Most of the players live in a suburb about 18 miles from Toronto," he said. "The rent is really exorbitant in Toronto. The ball park (Exhibition Stadium) was built for football originally so it's no Anaheim Stadium. But then, no stadium in the league is as nice as Anaheim Stadium."

When Singer was asked what his pennant picks would be, he made a couple of interesting observations.

"In the East, the Yankees have the personnel," he said. "But I was disappointed in the way Don Gullett threw against us this year. He didn't look good at all. He didn't look like the Don Gullett I saw before. The Yanks are weaker against lefthanders than righthanders.

"The Angels should be in the race in the West all the way if they get the motivation to get rolling. Kansas City hasn't been playing nearly as well as it should. The Royals' lineup against lefthanded pitching isn't nearly as impressive as it is against righthanded pitching.

"I think the Twins are going to be the team to beat. They can hit and their defense is good. Their biggest problem will be can their bullpen hold up."

Asked for a little more on the Angels, Singer replied, "I don't think they're hitting as well as they should. They aren't swinging the bats as well as they should for the talent they have. Their pitching needs more help. I think they're going to have to get another starter."

Bill Singer? we asked.

"Sure," he laughed.

TURNING TWO

Toronto Blue Jays' shortstop Bob Bailor completes a double play in the fourth inning as the Angels' Bobby Bonds tries to break it up. Expansion Jays beat Angels, 6-3.

Angels go in tailspin

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — If the Angels discovered water under their Palm Springs property, washing would go out of style.

That's the way things go for the hapless Halos. Another stretch of games in which they figured to pick up ground is proving to be a disaster.

Home for eight games against the three bottom clubs in the East, Detroit, Toronto and Cleveland, the Angels have gone into another tailspin.

Tuesday night's 6-3 loss to the expansionist Toronto Blue Jays made it three losses in four games played. And the Halos are once again back below .500 at 25-26.

"None of our pitchers have been as strong since those three days off," sighed manager Norm Sherry glumly. "Our hitters have had their ups and downs too. We haven't hit as well as we could all season."

Paul Hartzell (1-5) was roughed up for eight hits including two home runs and two doubles in 7&2/3 innings. The surprising Blue Jays (team average .259) also belted a homer and double off Dave LaRoche in 1&1/3 innings.

"They hit the ball well didn't they?" Sherry asked of no one in particular.

The homers, a two-run clout by rookie John Scott in the second inning, and solo blasts by veteran Ron Fairly in the eighth and rookie Dave McKay in the ninth, were all well hit. But McKay was hitting only .181 at the time.

And Scott never should have come to the plate in the second. There should have been three out. But three unearned runs, set up by Jerry Remy's bobble, scored.

Mistakes have killed the Halos all season long and they continue to do so. If Bobby Grich, who batted leadoff and walked three times, hadn't been caught leaning the wrong way in the seventh, the Angels would have held a 4-3 lead going into the eighth.

Instead, Grich was picked off by rookie Mike Willis. So the Angels scored only one run when Remy followed with a single and Don Baylor doubled. Baylor was left stranded when Bobby Bonds popped out.

The Halos also had a runner thrown out at the plate.

In the fifth inning, Willie Mays Aikens singled and Terry Humphrey walked. After Grich was retired, Remy hit a ball that went right through Toronto's Doug Ault at first. Aikens scored, but Humphrey was cut down at the plate on a good throw from rightfielder Otto Velez.

Scott finished the night with a homer, double and single. Fairly had a homer and double.

"I've been surprised at our hitting all year," admitted Toronto manager Roy Hartsfield. "When we left Florida, I thought the weakest part of our game would be our offense. I certainly didn't expect to have two guys among the top 10 hitters."

Shortstop Bob Bailor (.345) and outfielder Al Woods (.321) are ranked second and ninth in the National League.

"Fairly has been a big help on and off the field," added Hartsfield. "He still plays the game just like he did when he broke in with the Dodgers."

Maybe that's what the Angels lack, a team leader.

ANGEL ANGLES — Nolan Ryan (8-5) and Jesse Jefferson (3-4) will be the pitchers in tonight's series finale. The Halos get Thursday off before Cleveland comes in for three.

Sherry says he'll keep Hartzell in the starting rotation. The bullpen lineup is LaRoche and Dick Drago for short relief, Mickey Scott and Wayne Simpson long and Don Kirkwood in the middle.

Adams surprised at high selection

Montclair High shortstop Rick Adams knew he would go high in Major League Baseball's draft Tuesday, but even he was surprised at just how high he was picked.

The 18-year old Montclair senior was a first round selection of the Houston Astros, and was the 14th player tabbed in the nation-wide June draft.

Surprisingly, Adams was the lone local prep player picked in Tuesday's drafting. The major league teams went through 13 rounds, with the rest of the primary phase of the draft scheduled to go today, along with the secondary phase.

The only other locals selected Tuesday were two La Verne College players — pitcher Doug Thomson and third baseman Steve Polan.

Thomson, a righthanded junior, went to California on the seventh round. Polan, a senior, was tabbed by Baltimore in the 12th round.

"No, I really had no idea that I would go as high as I did," Adams said Tuesday. "I'm real proud to have been picked that high, it's an honor.

"I received notice of the draft from Bill Virdon (the Astros' field manager). He called from the Astrodome in Houston to tell me the Astros had picked me.

"They can't start to negotiate with me until I graduate on the 15th. We will just have to see what happens then. I have a full-ride scholarship set up at Arizona State, which is just about the best baseball school in the country. But I want to sign with Houston, so it's kind of up to them now."

Adams was an All-San Antonio League selection as a junior and senior at Montclair, helping the Cavaliers to the SAL title both years. He hit .320 as a junior and upped that mark to .373 as a senior, while sparkling in the field.

La Verne's Thomson posted a 10-6 mound mark this past season in helping the Leos to a third place finish in the NAIA World Series. He had previously been drafted in the first round in 1975 by the Minnesota Twins, but passed up that chance to go pro in order to continue his college education.

Third sacker Polan socked 16 home runs for La Verne this season and hit over .360. He was also outstanding defensively.

Dodgers say Cubs are real

CHICAGO (AP) — Nobody, least of all the Chicago Cubs, have to convince Los Angeles Manger Tom Lasorda that the National League East Division leaders are for real.

"Anybody who's in first place has to be for real," Lasorda said Tuesday after the Cubs whipped the Dodgers 10-4 and dealt the West Division leaders their second straight loss. "They're doing the things they have to do to win."

Ray Burris, the Cubs' starting pitcher who went eight innings to improve his record to 8-5, agreed.

"We're as good as we want to be," said Burris. "We have depth that we haven't had in the past and its good knowing we have everybody pulling for each other."

"It's not a team of superstars, but everybody's doing their job," said Burris.

The Cubs battered Tommy John, 6-3, for six runs in two innings and never gave the 34-year-old left-hander a chance to get his bearings on the mound.

"Tommy couldn't get the ball over the plate and when he did they hit it," said Lasorda.

Manny Trillo, who had three singles to boost his league-leading batting average to .380, drove in a pair of runs in the first and Dave Rosello collected the first of his three RBI with a single to cap a three-run uprising in the inning.

Trillo drove in another run with his second single in the third and Rosello added a two-run double as Chicago scored five times to put the game out of reach. Burris' two-run single in the fourth off reliever Stan Wall completed Chicago scoring.

"Trillo? What else can you say other than he's hitting the ball," said Cubs Manager Herman Franks.

Burris, 8-5, scattered nine hits, struck out six and walked one, before giving way to Paul Reuschel to begin the ninth.

The Dodgers got to the Cubs' starter for three runs in the seventh, one of them Steve Garvey's ninth home run. Reuschel yielded the Dodgers' final run in the ninth phen they loaded the bases and Glenn Burke, who drove in a run in the seventh with a single, grounded to short and Ivan DeJesus' toss to second for a force play bounced into the dirt.

Franks then summoned Bruce Sutter to make his 27th appearance in 50 games and the relief ace responded by striking out pinch-hitter Rick Monday and John Hale to end the game.

"You can't let the Dodgers get started," said Sutter, who leads the National League with 16 saves. "They had Monday coming up with the basesloaded and if he hits a homer then its 10-8."

ALBERTO DAVILA

Davila faces biggest fight

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Alberto Davila is getting a bit tired of being regarded as Pomona's "other" bantamweight.

Davila will go toe-to-toe with Frankie Duarte at the Olympic Auditorium Thursday night in a 118-pound World elimination bout. The 22-year old graduate of Garey High is currently the fifth-ranked bantam in the world.

However, it's been undefeated Alberto "Superfly" Sandoval who's been getting the lion's share of the headlines the past year or so.

"Yes, it does bother me," Davila said of the lack of "ink" he's been getting despite a 22-4 career mark and wins over top-ranked 118-pounders Cubanito Hernandez and Lupe Pintor. "I've had some very important fights the past year but people still come up to me and ask me if I'm still fighting.

"The press has helped Sandoval in my opinion," Davila indicated. "It's helped him to believe in himself and helped draw a lot of his friends and fans to his fights. I feel I'm a better boxer and have more experience than him, so I hope that this fight Thursday kind of turns things around."

Indeed, a win over the tough Duarte (28-2 with 22 KOs) Thursday at the Olympic could move Davila into position for a world title match before the end of the year.

"Yes, this is my biggest fight ever," Davila agreed. "I've wanted this fight for a long time. It's going to lead to a lot of good things for me if I win."

Davila goes into the scheduled 12-rounder with Duarte as an even choice, according to the oddsmakers. The Pomona resident beat Carlos Alcivar in a 10-rounder in his last appearance at the Olympic a month ago.

Since the Alcivar bout Davila has been preparing himself physically and mentally for Duarte.

"Conditioning is the most important factor in any sport, and I'm going to be ready to go 12 rounds when I step into that ring Thursday," he vowed. "You cheat yourself if you're not in top condition.

"I'm not going to try for a knockout or anything, I'm just going to go all out for a win, one way or the other. I've seen Duarte fight before and feel I can beat him."

Big question in the minds of many ring experts is the obvious advantage in height and reach Duarte will have over Davila. Duarte, like Davila a 22-year old, stands 5-7. Davila is 5-2.

"No my lack of height doesn't bother me," Davila claims. "Heck, I'm used to it by now, almost all my opponents have been taller than me. I just prepare myself to nullify any reach advantage my opponent might have."

Duarte, who has been flatly predicting a knockout of the Pomona boxer, might have a problem making weight for Thursday's bout. The Venice resident hasn't made the 118-pound limit since 1974. His last few fights have been at 120 to 122.

Weight won't be a problem for Davila. In fact, he's a little concerned that he might come into the important bout lighter than he would like.

"I was down to 116½ last Friday, but hope to be as close to 118 as possible for the fight," Davila said. "Making that weight has never been a problem for me, I am a natural bantamweight."

Although a lot of area ring fans have speculated about a possible Davila-Sandoval fight if Davila gets past Duarte, that sort of talk isn't bothering Alberto.

"No, I haven't heard anything about such a bout," Davila claimed. "I'm not worrying about it, I just take 'em one fight at a time anyway.

"I am hoping to fight Alfonso Zamora (the World Boxing Association bantamweight champ) before the year is out."

Still, Davila couldn't help but see the possibilities in a bout with "Superfly".

"Yes, it would be fun to fight him here in Pomona", Davila said wistfully, "but I don't think there's a place in town anywhere near big enough to hold the kind of crowd we'd draw!"

For Davila, who will be in line for his biggest purse of his pro career Thursday with a win, the future may well hold a very rich payday with the "Superfly".

Barry prefers Phoenix Suns

SAN FRANCISNO (AP) — Rick Barry, one of the top forwards in the National Basketball Association, says he would like to play for the Phoenix Suns, but that does not mean he wants to be traded.

Barry, in an interview with the Tucson Citizen, said he likes the Suns' team-play concept because that is the kind of basketball that wins championships.

"If I had a team I could pick to play on, it would be Phoenix," said Barry, in Las Vegas for a celebrity tennis tournament. "The Suns need a forward who plays the way I can play. They'd like to have me and I'd like to play for them."

For now, the 6-foot-7 All-Star has one year left on a contract with the Golden State Warriors. He led the Warriors to the NBA championship two years ago.

He said Tuesday that his remarks were not intended to mean he wanted to be traded to the Suns.

He answered with an emphatic "No" when asked by the San Francisco Chronicle in a telephone interview whether he wanted to be traded. "Are you kidding?" he added.

Noting that construction of his new home in the Oakland area was beginning next month, Barry said, "That's all I need—a trade so I could commute."

He confirmed, however, that he was accurately quoted in his admiration for the Suns' team play. He was critical of Golden State's style several times during the past year.

Bucks go after Johnson

NEW YORK (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks, in an apparent move to secure UCLA All-American Marques Johnson in Friday's National Basketball Association draft, have traded center Swen Nater to Buffalo for the Braves' first-round choice.

Picking third over-all with the Braves' choice, the Bucks reportedly will go for the UCLA forward, although a team spokesman said the Bucks had made no firm commitment. He did say, however, that Bucks General Manager Wayne Embry and Coach Don Nelson would travel to Los Angeles and talk with Johnson.

The Braves also received one of the Bucks' three first-round choices—the 13th pick overall—and future considerations in the deal.

The Braves had intended to take that 13th pick and send it to the Cleveland Cavaliers along with center-forward John Gianelli in return for guard Jim Cleamons, now a free agent. However, that plan hit a snag.

A Braves spokesman said: "What the Braves had intended to be a three way deal with Cleveland and Milwaukee was stopped, at least temporarily, when the NBA office ruled that a free agent could not be traded.

"The Braves have not decided what action to take but will continue working on it (the deal with Cleveland)," the spokesman said.

Nater, a 6-foot-11, 250-pounder, was Bill Walton's backup at UCLA before spending three seasons in the American Basketball Association and is a strong rebounder.

Nater, 27, was seventh in the league in rebounding last season with 12 per game and turned in the single best rebounding performance of the season Dec. 19 at Milwaukee with 33. He averaged 13 points per game during the season.

Meanwhile, Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch also said that Cleamons had not been traded to Buffalo. Fitch said that although the deal was one of many discussed with the Braves, it was not consumated.

"With that status (free agent) I don't know if we can trade him," Fitch said.

The swap still can be completed if either Cleveland or Buffalo signs Cleamons.

Top track athletes gather at UCLA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A number of world records will be in jeopardy when the nation's top track and field athletes gather Thursday at UCLA for the opening of the National AAU Outdoor Championships.

Among the entrants in the three-day meet are world record holders in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles, high jump, shot put and discus.

Edwin Moses, who ran the 400-meter hurdles in a world standard 47.64 seconds at the 1976 Montreal Olympics, faces a field that includes NCAA champion Tom Andrews.

In the high jump, Dwight Stones will try and break his world record of 7 feet, 7¼ inches, and will be pressed by a field including schoolboy sensation Gail Olson, who has cleared 7-4.

Terry Albritton, world record-holder in the shot put at 71-8½, may be challenged by the world record-holder in another event, Mac Wilkins. Albritton's best toss this year is 70-6½, while Wilkins, holder of the world discus record of 2326, has a shot put of 69-1¼ this year.

In the discus, Wilkins will face old rival John Powell. Wilkins won the gold medal at Montreal, while Powell settled for the bronze. But Powell has beaten Wilkins twice this year.

Other highlighted field events in the AAU meet will include the pole vault, in which Earl Bell, Mike Tully and Dan Ripley will battle; the long jump, featuring 1976 AAU winner and Olympic champion Arnie Robinson against NCAA titlist Larry Doubley, and the triple jump, with Ron Livers, Will e Banks and Tommy Haynes among the entrants.

The 100-meter dash is expected to be one of the top running events, with the field including Harvey Glance and Hasley Crawford.

The 1,500 meters will feature a pair of Kenyans, Wilson Waigwa and Mike Boit, and the best U.S. runner in the event, California-Irvine's Steve Scott. The field for the 5,000 includes Frank Shorter, Marty Liquori and Garry Bjorklund.

Although there is little chance any women's world records will fall, there is a great deal of interest in the 800 and 1,500 meters. Francie Larrieu Lutz, a double winner in the AAU indoor meet, will face Julie Brown in both races.

Competition should be particularly heated in all events since winners will become eligible to represent the United States in September's inaugural World Cup meet at Dusseldorf, West Germany.

Herron won't face charges

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Drug possession charges against former professional football player Mack Herron will not be filed due to insufficient evidence linking him to cocaine found in his hotel room May 31.

The 28-year-old former New England Patriots star was arrested at the Airport Marina Hotel, where police said they found one gram of cocaine in his room. But Deputy District Atty. Roger Gunson said they could not tie the drug directly to Herron because another person had used the room.

Herron had been scheduled to be arraigned Tuesday in Municipal Court.

Jabbar ahead of Walton

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Walton helped the Portland Trail Blazers to the National Basketball Association title, but the 6-foot-11 center finished second to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Los Angeles Lakers in the NBA all-star voting.

Walton was joined on the second team by Julius Erving and George McGinnis of the Philadelphia 76ers, whom the Blazers defeated in the championship playoffs.

Abdul-Jabbar and Pete Maravich of the New Orleans Jazz led those named to the first team, which was announced Tuesday by the NBA.

Abdul-Jabbar collected 107 points in voting by sports writers and broadcasters from all league cities. The first-team selection was the sixth of the centers eight-year NBA career.

Maravich, like Abdul-Jabbar a first-team repeater, received 104 points to earn one of the guard positions on the team. Maravich averaged 31.1 points per game to lead NBA scorers and earn his second All-Star award.

Forwards Elvin Hayes of the Washington Bullets and David Thompson of the Denver Nuggets and guard Paul Westphal of the Phoenix Suns complete the first team.

Filling out the second team are guards George Gervin of the San Antonio Spurs and JoJo White of the Boston Celtics.

Bob Risch makes field for U.S. Open

CAMARILLO — Diamond Bar's Bob Risch was one of six golfers who qualified here Tuesday for the U.S. Open.

Risch carded a 36-hole total of 146 over the par-72 Saticoy Country Club course. He and five other California golfers thus made the field for the U.S. Open, to be held at Tulsa, Okla., June 16-19.

Top qualifers Tuesday on the Saticoy course were Ron Hoyt of Sunol and amateur Dr. James Rheim of Carmel. Both recorded 145 totals for 36 holes.

Other qualifers besides Risch at 146 were former U.S. open champion Jack Fleck of Huntington Beach, Bob Boldt of Walnut Creek and Jerry Jessmer of Mesa. The first alternate in the qualifying was Victor Hiyek of Los Angeles, who also recorded a 146 but lost in a playoff with the other four golfers at that score.

Among those who failed to qualify were Jerry Barber, who had a 153, Rick Rhoads, who had a 151, and Bruce Summerhays, who had a 150.

Post 30, Post 78 triumph

Pomona Post 30 and Claremont Post 78 posted non-league American Legion victories Tuesday.

Post 30 evened its season mark at 7-7 with a 2-1 win over the Walnut Thorobred squad. Post 78 is now 6-7-1 on the year after nipping Montclair Post 616 6-5.

Pomona hurlers Aurelio Coronado, Jack Phillips and Tim Lambert limited Walnut to only five hits. Post 30 catcher Larry Reyes helped subdue the Thorobred squad by gunning down five would-be base stealers.

Post 30 scored the winning runs in the last of the sixth off former teammate Dean Fritchle. Mike Keegan singled and stole second, and Reyes was hit by a Fritchle delivery. A passed ball moved them to second and third, and Keegan scored on Joey Chapa's sacrifice fly and a Lambert single brought home Reyes.

Keegan finished the game with three hits, while Art Avila chipped in with two safeties for Pomona.

Claremont put together a triple by Dick Bell and doubles by Paul Sokolowski and Mike Davis in a four-run first inning, and hurlers Mark Layne and Rich Tullis managed to hold off Montclair the rest of the way.

On the game, Bell had two hits, as did Dan Layne.

Lafleur earns Hart Trophy

MONTREAL (AP) — Right wing Guy Lafleur of Montreal Canadiens has been named winner of the Hart Memorial Trophy as the Most Valuable Player in the National Hockey League for the 1976-77 season.

The honor marked the third individual award captured by Lafleur as he helped Montreal to its 20th Stanley Cup playoff triumph. The 25-year-old native of Thurso, Que., also won the Art Ross Trophy as NHL scoring champion and the Conn Smythe Trophy as the MVP in the playoffs.

Other individual award winners announced Tuesday were Larry Robinson of Montreal, who earned the James Norris Memorial Trophy as the best defenseman; center Marcel Dionne of Los Angeles Kings, who won the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy as the player best combining gentlemanly play and outstanding ability; and right wing Willi Plett of the Atlanta Flames, who took the Calder Memorial Trophy as Rookie of the Year.

Balloting for the awards was conducted among 54 members of the Professional Hockey Writers' Association in the 18 league cities.

Lafleur becomes only the third player in league history to win as many as three individual honors in a single season.

Bobby Orr, then of the Boston Bruins, captured a record four awards in 1969-70 when he took the Ross, Hart, Norris and Smythe trophies. Stan Mikita of the Chicago Black Hawks captured the Hart, Ross and Lady Byng trophies in 1966-67 and 1967-68.

The trophies pushed Lafleur's NHL award money to a record $27,500. He earned $15,000 for Montreal's Stanley Cup victory, $5,000 for the team's first-place finish in the Prince of Wales Conference, $2,000 for the Ross award, $1,500 for each of the Hart and muthe trophies, $2,000 for his first all-star team berth and $500 for helping his conference to victory in the all-star game in January.

Second in the balloting was center Bobby Clarke of the Philadelphia Flyers, the winner the two previous seasons. Los Angeles goaltender Rogatien Vachon was third.

Robinson won the defensemen's award by the closest margin of any of the races. He polled 186 points to beat Borje Salming of the Toronto Maple Leafs by 29 points. Denis Potvin of New York Islanders, last year's winner, was a distant third in the Norris voting.

Dionne became the first Los Angeles player to win an individual honor despite the fact he has won the Lady Byng twice in three seasons. He was the recipient in 1974-75 while with the Detroit Red Wings. Jean Ratelle of the Boston Bruins was runner-up.

Plett scored 33 goals to lead all rookies in 1976-77. Plett, born June 7, 1955, in Paraguay, was Atlanta's fourth choice and the 80th over-all in the 1975 amateur draft. He played most of the 1976-76 season with Tulsa Oilers in the Central Hockey League, seeing action in four games with the Flames.

This season, he was Atlanta's third-leading point scorer with 56.

Don Murdoch of New York Rangers finished second to Plett in the Calder voting. In third place was Roland Eriksson of Minnesota North Stars.

Walton finds bike

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Bill Walton is getting his bicycle back.

The big center of the Portland Trail Blazers lost the bike somewhere along the route of a wild parade Monday to celebrate the team winning the National Basketball Association title.

Walton started the parade aboard his 10-speed bicycle, but, swamped by enthusiastic fans, managed to lose it somewhere along the route through downtown Portland.

The bike originally had been reported stolen. But Jack Scott, a friend of Walton's, said Tuesday, "It was just a bad choice of words when he said it was stolen. Bill just abandoned it in the crowd and he didn't know who had it."

Scott said he doesn't know who has the bicycle, but "we've been told that it will be returned to Bill personally."

Walton is relaxing after the championship series by taking a float trip down a wilderness river in Oregon.

Citrus schedules five-day net clinic

A five-day tennis clinic for beginning, intermediate and competitive players is scheduled at Citrus College next week.

Both on-court and classroom instruction will given during the 6 to 9 p.m. sessions Monday through Friday. Heading the clinic will be Mike Meissenburg, Citrus varsity coach and head pro at Pacific Sands Club in Huntington Beach.

Enrollment will be limited to the first 32 applicants who pay their $30 fees at the college Cashier's Office.

Old names appear in baseball draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Kennedy ... Jim Landis ... Tito Francona.

The names carry with them memories of the 1950s when all three were major league mainstays. If you remember them as players, the years are creeping up because all three had sons chosen Tuesday in baseball's amateur draft.

Kennedy is now vice president for baseball operations of the Chicago Cubs and had the final say on his club's selection in the draft. The St. Louis Cardinals saved him from facing the decision whether to draft his son, Terry, by picking the young Florida State University catcher on the draft's first round.

Kennedy, the sixth player chosen, batted .333 with eight home runs and 41 runs batted in this season. For his career, the slugging catcher has a Florida State record 32 homers and a .348 average.

Despite those impressive numbers, Kennedy doesn't think he's ready for the majors quite yet. "I feel through natural development and playing, I'm a couple of years away," he said.

Kennedy's coach at FSU is ex-major league infielder Woody Woodward. "I could coach another 10 years and not have another prospect like Terry," said Woodward. "He's that good. There're a lot of clubs in the big leagues he could play for right now."

Landis, once the fleet center fielder of the Chicago White Sox, had his son, Craig, chosen 10th in the first round by the San Francisco Giants. The youngster is a shortstop at Vintage High School in Napa, Calif.

Then, on the draft's second round, it was Francona's turn. The Cubs went for his son, Terry, a first baseman from New Brighton, Pa.

The No. 1 choice in the draft belonged to the Chicago White Sox, who selected and then quickly signed first baseman-outfielder Hal Baines from St. Michaels, Md.

Baines, an 18-year-old slugger, grew up just 10 miles from Sox owner Bill Veeck's former home in Easton, Md. Veeck, who knows the territory and watched the youngster play Little League ball, traveled back to the Maryland Eastern Shore community to sign him.

Baines was the seventh high school player to be the No. 1 selection in the draft since the major leagues began dividing the top amateur talent this way 13 years ago. The last one was pitcher David Clyde, selected No. 1 by the Texas Rangers in 1973.

Pitchers dominated the first round with 11 picked. Nine were right-handers. The top mound prospect is right-hander William Gullickson, a 6-foot-3, 200-pounder from Joliet Catholic High School, drafted second by Montreal.

Nineteen of the 26 first-round picks were high school players. The only collegians selected on the opening round were Kennedy, shortstop Paul Molitor, picked by Milwaukee out of Minnesota; pitcher Randy Martz, selected by the Cubs from South Carolina; Pitcher Robert Welch of Eastern Michigan by Los Angeles, and pitcher Steven Taylor of Delaware by the New York Yankees.

The draft continued today with Minnesota holding the first choice in the secondary phase which deals with players previously drafted but not signed.

Scottish dance class offered

George Bogart, a certificated member of the Royal Scottish Country Dance Society, is offering a Scottish dance class for adults at 8 p.m. Mondays at the Youth Activity Center, 1717 N. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont. The cost is $1 per class.

Bogart began his Scottish dancing in San Francisco in 1958 and continued since he moved to Los Angeles nine years ago. He has been teaching in the Los Angeles area for the past four years. He is a member of the Teachers Association of Canada.

Information on the classes can be obtained at 624-3830 or 629-8341.

Tall penguin

The emperor penguin, tallest of its species at four feet, breeds in the Antarctic during the winter and holds its egg between its feet and belly to keep it from freezing.

ON THE YELLOW BRICK ROAD — Dorothy (Renee Harris) and her entourage will be heading for the enchanted kingdom of Oz when the musical, "The Wiz," returns June 17 to the Ahmanson Theater of the Los Angeles Music Center. Her companions are The Lion (Ken Prymus), The Tin Man (Ben Harney) and The Scarecrow (Charles Valentino).

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks were broadly higher Wednesday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 5.60-point winner Tuesday, was ahead 1.10 points to 909.77 shortly before noon EDT. The closely watched average had been ahead more than two points at the outset.

Analysts said the Dow's ability Tuesday to avoid a sharp drop from the 900 level was encouraging investors. Many said investors apparently had placed "buy" orders at the 900 level. Last year, they placed "sell" orders at the 1,000 Dow level.

Advances led declines, 705 to 371, among the 1,604 issues crossing the tape. But the 528 unchanged issues reflected considerable investor uncertainty about the course of the market.

Analysts said investors remained worried about reports that Saudi Arabia would raise oil prices. Saudi officials denied them. One analyst said the thing that worried Wall Street was that the dispatches about increases said Saudi Arabia would do it because of the failure of the North-South talks between rich and poor nations.

The Saudis have said they would not raise prices for political reasons, one analyst noted. The persistent talk of politically motivated increases is what was worrying observers.

Volume at the two-hour mark amounted to about 9,600,000 shares, up from the 8,320,000 traded during the same period Tuesday.

Northrop was off 1⅞ following published reports the Carter administration has canceled its sale of 250 F18L fighter aircraft to Iran. The sale would have cost Iran $4 billion.

General Mills, a ⅞-point winner Tuesday, was ahead 1⅛. The company said Tuesday its Kenner Products division has reached agreement to manufacture toys around the theme of Twentieth CenturyFox's money-making movie "Star Wars."

Fox stock, the second most active NYSE issue, was ahead ⅛ to 20. Mattel, which gained a point Tuesday before denying it rumors it would make "Star Wars" toys, was the third most active issue, unchanged at 8.

Texas Utilities was the most active issue, up ⅛ to 21⅜.

Kennecott, which climbed 3⅞ points Tuesday, was off 1¼. The Federal Trade Commission has approved Kennecott's divestiture of its Peabody Coal unit to a consortium headed by Newmont Mining for $1.2 billion. It was the largest government-ordered divestiture in U.S. history.

Sears, Roebuck was off ¾. The Wall Street Journal said a number of analysts believe Sears' color television supplies will be cut, and its sales will decline, because of Japan's recent agreement to limit the number of sets it imports to the United States. Many of Sears' sets are Japanese made.

California-based corporations post record of increased profits

LOS ANGELES — (BW) — During the first quarter of 1977, major California-based corporations posted an increase in profits nearly three times that of the nation as a whole, according to a study released by United California Bank (UCB).

The study, which surveyed 106 of the largest non-financial corporations in the state, showed profits advanced 27 per cent over the first quarter of 1976, while the national pace was 10 per cent. Sales of the California corporations were up 15 per cent.

UCB chief economist Dr. Raymond Jallow attributed the slower U.S. rate of growth to "the severe cold and natural gas shortage suffered in the East during the first quarter."

Jallow noted that the "sizeable increase" in California's corporate sales and profits "reflects the strong performance of the California econimy despite a serious drought in the West."

"The increase in profits is expected to continue for the remaining quarters of the year, but at a lower percentage increase. California corporate profits are predicted to increase by more than 15 per cent for a year as a whole."

The UCB survey included 82 out of the largest 100 industrial companies in the state, plus nine transportation companies, five merchandising firms, 10 utilities and 15 financial institutions. The sales and profits reported by the companies were derived from business operations inside as well as outside the state.

The biggest gainers in both sales and profits were transportation companies, which posted a 61 per cent quarterly increase in profits over the like period last year, according to the study.

"Transportation companies are continuing to make a dramatic turnaround from the much lower levels of growth they sustained in 1975," Jallow said.

Sales of transportation firms were up 18 per cent.

Merchandising firms and utilities both had profit growth of 28 per cent in the first three months, but merchandising firms showed the weakest sales gains at 9 per cent. Utilities' revenue gains in the first quarter were 17 per cent.

Although industrial companies accounted for almost three-quarters of total sales and profits of all non-financial corporations in the survey, their profit growth rate was the weakest at 25 per cent. Sales of industrials were up 16 per cent.

Earnings of non-financial businesses grew more rapidly than sales in the first quarter (27 per cent vs. 15 per cent) as a result of "increasing productivity in a recovering economy," Jallow said.

The survey also noted that financial institutions recorded a quarterly profit gain of 32 per cent, outperforming non-financial firms by 18 per cent.

Three-continent network set

IRVINE, Calif. — (BW) — Conputer Automation Inc., Irvine, has been selected by Fairchild Camera & Instrument Corp. to provide SyFA network processing systems for an international data communications network that spans three continents.

The contract, valued at approximately $2 million, calls for up to 18 SyFA minicomputer systems to link Fairchild facilities in Asia and Europe to its corporate headquarters in Mountain View, Calif.

The computer network, hosted by an IBM 370/168 in Mountain View, will bring together the functions of order processing, production control and inventory control, said Ivan Socher, general manager of Computer Automation's commercial system division.

The network, when fully implemented, will be hierarchical in design, with SyFA systems communicating with other large-scale computers in addition to the host.

A SyFA system was tested in an actual production environment at Mountain View prior to Computer Automation's selection, Socher said.

"Applications software was written, and the system was put on line in less than 30 days," Socher said.

The first delivery overseas will be to the Far East and is scheduled for shipment in early June.

"We are especially flattered by Fairchild's selection because of its own long-standing, pioneering position in the electronics/computer industry and the intimate perspective it has on the direction of data processing," Socher said.

SyFA was developed specifically for network communications and distributed processing applications. It supports the concurrent execution of 24 interactive terminals, synchronous communications to a mainframe, tow high-speed printer spooling jobs, and up to 16 background utility programs.

LIKE A PHOENIX FROM THE ASHES — A one-woman business has become a million-dollar enterprise. Betty Smulian's little business in Norcross, Ga., was ruined when fire destroyed it, but the fire had also antiqued the iron pipes which were used for lighting fixtures. Mrs. Smulian capitalized on this and developed her nationwide business. Mrs. Smulian stands next to a machine that makes the plastic globes that are used with her lamps.

News to use

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer complaints about airline service dropped 35 per cent from March to April, with Hawaiian Airlines recording the lowest complaint percentage, according to the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The CAB said Hawaiian averaged 0.80 complaints per 100,000 passengers during the month, the best percentage achieved by any major scheduled airline in the country.

Hughes Airwest had the second lowest complaint average at 1.05 complaints per 100,000 passengers.

Next among the five airlines with fewest complaints per 100,000 passengers were Delta, 1.67; Frontier, 1.76 and Piedmont, 1.89.

CAB officials noted that the figures were for complaints received and the validity of the problems has not been determined in all cases. Also, officials said the report should not be considered a rating of airlines because each carrier faces different operating problems.

Consumers who have difficulties with airlines which they have been unable to resolve can write to the CAB Office of the Consumer Advocate, 1825 Connecticut Ave. NW, Washington, D.C. 20428.

SMALL BUSINESS HELP — The Interstate Commerce Commission has established a special office to assist small businesses with transportation problems.

The ICC Small Business Assistance Office will advise and assist small firms seeking transportation services as well as those in or planning to enter the transportation business, officials said.

Businessmen interested in seeking asistance from this office should contact the Small Business Assistance Office, Care of Chairman Dan O'Neal, Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D.C., 20423.

FORD RECALL — Ford Motor Co. has announced a recall of about 400,000 1972 Lincoins, Ford Torinos and Mercury Montegos equipped with flex-fans for engine cooling.

Government investigators said blades from the fan may break off, possibly damaging the auto or causing injury.

Ford said owners of the cars will be notified by mail starting June 22. Meanwhile, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration is investigating the use of the flex-fans on other Ford autos from 1970 through 1977 to determine if any other actions may be needed.

POSTAL CHANGE — The postal service is planning to eliminate one type of publication from its low second-class mail rates.

The proposal would require the higher third-class payment for publications that have printed illustrations pasted into them.

These had been eligible for the lower rate because printing problems made it cheaper to paste in some color pictures. However, advances in printing have made it easier to print color directly on the pages of publications.

Interested persons may comment on the proposed change until July 5. Write to the Director, Office of Mail Classification, Rates and Classification Department, U.S. Postal Service, Washington, D.C. 20260.

Praises Carter

CHICAGO — (BW) — A top executive of one of the nation's largest industrial firms praised President Carter for facing the energy dilemma but warned the nation to gird itself for continuing the battle for hydrocarbon supplies and continued reliance on foreign oil.

"Frankly I admire the President for his facing the nation's energy dilemma, but I can't see much progress being made from the program he has presented," said Richard A. Jay, vice chairman of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. and president of the company's general products division.

Dividend

LOS ANGELES — (BW) — Tobias Kotzin Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 6¼ cents a share payable June 24 to shareholders of record June 10.

WHALE "BEACHED" — A gigantic whale more than 110 feet long and 14 feet wide, made out of sand, smiles back at a gathering of more than 200 spectators and members of the American Cetacean Society who helped sculpt the monster over the weekend on the beach at San Pedro.

U.S. military has Jews in Arab lands?

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Jewish Congress is pressing the U.S. Department of Defense to tell how many, if any, Jews are among American military personnel assigned to Arab lands.

A letter from the Pentagon claims it doesn't know, but the Congress points out it would be easy to determine since most service personnel indicate their religious preference in their records, and only 1,214 are on duty in Arab countries.

Rabbi Arthur Hertzberg, the Congress president, initiated the inquiry with Defense Secretary Harold Brown to determine if a presidential executive order forbidding federal agencies from applying any religious restrictions was being complied with by the military in Arab lands.

Today's Salvation Army: still strict outfit with a big heart

SUFFERN, N.Y. (AP) — It could be a dormitory on any pastoral college campus. Students in faded denims are sweeping the floors, studying in out-of-the-way corners and eating sandwiches on the run.

But these clean-cut men and women change into drab blue uniforms for class. They don't smoke, don't drink and must marry each other. They are cadets in the Salvation Army.

"There's a certain batch of people who think we're a little odd, maybe even weirdo. But God wants us to do this. That's why we're here," says Charlotte Lewis, 30, defending her decision to enter the austere. disciplined life of the officers training school here

To outsiders, the Salvation Army conjures up images of soapbox preachers, brass bands, Christmas kettles, free soup, and those funny little bonnets the women all wear.

To its officers and members, it is a multi-faceted social welfare and Christian evangelical ministry operating throughout 82 countries and territories on every continent in the world.

Like the do-gooders in the musical "Guys and Dolls" who try to reform the gambling ways of Nathan Detroit and his pals, Salvationists encounter both respect and scorn when tangling with the 20th Century.

Yet their officer training schools continue to attract hundreds of applications each year — far greater than the number of openings available, according to Suffern school director Maj. Roy M. Oldford.

"These are healthy normal men and women. They don't see themselves as zealots or Jesus freaks. They know the Salvation Army is an instrument to serve people, and it's the right one," Oldford said.

Most of the 106 cadets here seem curiously removed from the tumultuous 1960's when other young people their age were experimenting with political radicalism, drugs and permissive sexual mores.

Stephen Banfield, 24, admits he suffered the growing pains of "being different" in his tiny hometown of Sandford, Maine, where peer pressure dictated that everyone look and act alike.

"I guess I was about nine. The little kid next door told me he was an honor junior soldier in the Salvation Army and one day he came home wearing this neat army cap. That's when I really got interested," said the slim, athletic cadet who would have fit in easily at West Point.

Banfield's own family had stopped going to church several years before. But he became an active Salvationist, going to Sunday services and working as a counselor in the army's summer camps.

"Because it was such a small town, there was really no one else in my high school who was a member of the Salvation Army. Sure, I'd get kidding remarks like, 'Here, take my old clothes,' and that type of thing. You know, the misconceptions.

"But in my really close friends, there was a respect. I guess their parents had told them about the work of the Salvation Army, the real work, and the fathers had talked about the donuts in the war. They had quite a respect for me. I was really surprised."

Banfield's wife, Janet, is a fourth-generation Salvationist and a cadet at the school. According to regulations, marrying an outsider would mean leaving the army's ranks.

"It certainly cuts down the field," laughed Miss Lewis, a bubbly redhead who is single. She can date only with the permission of her chief side officer, the equivalent of a dean of women.

According to the army's regulations, the wife always takes on the rank of her husband, no matter if it is higher or lower than her own. Her husband receives the couple's appointment, and she must follow him.

"I don't think there are any built-in biases toward women," said Mrs. Banfield, 22, as she smoothed her long brown hair knotted neatly in a bun. "I do everything a man does. I preach, I lead meetings and I sing."

Women, as well as men, are ordained ministers when they complete the two-year program at one of four training schools in the country. Tuition is $770 for the entire program, including room and board.

As officers, Salvationists receive only $50 a week in living allowance although housing, transportation, medical benefits and child support are paid for by the non-profit organization.

"Self-denial, discipline and teamwork are necessary qualities among officers and cadets alike," reads the Salvation Army cadets' manual.

The cadets' daily schedule begins at 6:45 a.m. with a rising bell, includes time for daily prayer and meditation, and ends at 11:00 p.m. when they return to quarters — a Spartan room with bed and bureau.

The courses, mostly biblecentered, offer instruction on everything from "soul-winning" methods to sermon delivery and preparation.

One course, entitled "Woman Officer as Hostess," includes practice in etiquette, table-setting and meal planning.

The Salvation Army was founded in London in 1865 by William Booth, a Methodist minister, who was thrown out of an East End church when he tried to bring his newly converted street bums and outcasts inside.

Booth and his rag-tag band of volunteers broke away from accepted religious practices and held their meetings in tents, rented halls or out on the street.

His philosophy, as it evolved, was "you can't talk to someone about their soul if he's got an empty stomach." So his followers satisfied the poor's physical needs before preaching spiritual salvation.

Soup kitchens, alcoholic treatment centers and foundling shelters soon blossomed. The Salvation Army also operates missing persons bureaus, leper colonies and an extensive disaster relief network.

Worldwide, the organization has about 25,000 officers and more than two million members. A new commander general, British-born Arnold Brown of Toronto, Canada was chosen this spring.

Most cadets have smoked one or two cigarettes or "indulged" in an alcoholic beverage before joining. "That's part of being a teenager," Banfield said.

Oldford remembers one or two trainees who had "unconventional" backgrounds before joing the Salvation Army, like the male cadet who belonged to a violence-prone, drug-using motorcycle gang.

"I guess you could say he liked our uniform better than his leather jacket," the school director said.

The cadets, a tightly knit group, readily acknowledge they feel more comfortable with one another than with "outsiders." In addition to army life, they have their deep religious convictions in common.

Miss Lewis attended her first Salvation Army meeting in Florida when she was 13. Two weeks later, she underwent an intense spiritual conversion.

"Everything I had heard at the meeting came together," she said quietly. "I received Jesus Christ into my heart and made a personal commitment to Him. After that, the Salvation Army was my home."

Joyce Brothers

Work causes divorce

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My son's wife is suing for a divorce on grounds of incompatibility. She also claims he's been unfaithful, but my son tells me this isn't so. He blames their troubles directly on her working. I believe the women's movement is at fault and I should think the women involved would suffer terrible guilt. If my daughter-in-law hadn't gone to work, I'm sure they would have had children by now and then everything would have been all right. Young women today seem to want everything. I hope his next wife is the old-fashioned king. — S.T.

DEAR S.T.: You and your son may be opposed to women working but I doubt that this was the sole cause of your son's marital problems. Men who violently oppose their wive's going out into the world, either for further education or to get jobs, usually have rather shaky egos, and this can contribute to instability in a marriage.

Sociologist Elwood Carlson found that today work for women is coming to be associated with stable rather than unstable marriages. Among women in their late teens and early 20s, 84 per cent of the working wives remained married, compared with 82 per cent of their nonworking peers.

People have assumed that working wives make marriages unstable, because in the past, the increase in broken marriages coincided with a parallel increase in the number of working wives. Coincidence, Dr. Carlson points out, is not cause.

When a marriage fails, there are almost always multiple causes. Your son and you ought to be glad that no children are involved Contrary to your views, children do not strengthen weak marriages.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: Three of my close friends have been mugged in our own area in the past year. The last case involved a man who must have been on drugs because my friend said he seemed irrational. He held a knife at her throat and she was extremely fortunate to have escaped. Is there anything we can do to protect ourselves if we realize we're about to be attacked? — M.L.

DEAR M.L.: Obviously it isn't always possible but, the best protection against crime is to try to avoid dangerous situations. You can take the precaution, however, of avoiding dark streets, or if you must go on one, walk down the middle of it until you reach your destination. If you live in a high crime area, try not to go out after dark unless you are with a friend. Never set yourself up as a perfect victim by walking alone if you're intoxicated.

If you happen to be caught in a hallway or room with a violent person, don't challenge him. Allow him plenty of body space. Never try to crowd him, or move in any way that might seem threatening or aggressive.

Dr. Thomas Hackett, the chief of psychiatry at Massachusetts General Hospital suggests that you never look your assailant in the eye because a violent, disturbed person is apt to consider this a challenge. Blink look away, or rub your eyes, rather than get caught up in any kind of staring contest.

Don't lecture or express hostility. You can make it harder for a potential assailant to attack if you're outwardly friendly. If you're trapped, anything you can think of to stall for time is helpful.

Passive resistance may sometimes work. Pretending to faint, vomiting or tears may help to de-fuse a violent, mentally unbalanced person. With this particular kind of attacker, weakness can be your strongest defense.

Supersonic travel is memorable experience

By BETTY K. SCRIPPS
For AP Newsfeatures

LONDON (AP) — Excitement mounts as 100 passengers check in at Dulles International Airport, Washington, D.C., for a flight on the British Airways Concorde to London. Every piece of luggage is scanned by electronic devices and sealed with a narrow white plastic ribbon.

The twice-the-speed-of-sound Concorde has opened the supersonic era of commercial air transportation. France has joined with England in this government-subsidized project.

Approaching the Concorde by airport bus, one is somewhat surprised at the smallness of the plane's appearance. However, inside there is adequate headroom for someone 6 feet 2.

The interior of the plane is done in pale yellow-print paper on the walls and red wool carpeting. A wool fabric on the seats has a red and navy blue cubistic pattern. English stewardesses are smart-looking in two-piece navy blue wool suits, trimmed in red and worn with a white silk ascot-tie blouse.

Every seat is taken. Passengers on our flight include Americans and other nationalities from every part of the world. Fashionwise, knit two-piece suits with black patent accessories seem the choice for women passengers. A black mink full-length coat with narrow black leather belt completes the look.

The aircraft speeds down the runway and the motion is bumpy. Once the plane leaves the ground everything is smooth. The ride seems no different from that of slower craft to begin with. Even when the plane reaches 60,000 feet and increases speed to Mach 2 — twice the speed of sound — there is hardly a detectable difference in the ride. The difference might be in the exceptionally smooth travel at the 60,000-foot elevation. We are 11 miles high.

Passengers watch a large speed indicator in the forward part of the all-first-class plane. We travel at around 1,320 miles per hour. Pressurization is at 5,500 feet altitude, a trifle more comfortable than the 7,550 feet of most jets.

Dinner is delicious, featuring caviar, Maine lobster, a choice of veal, duckling or venison and fresh strawberries. Each course is accompanied by a superb wine. Jamaican Royal cigars are offered after dinner. A good pen is given each traveler as a memento of the trip.

And there's a very special sound of music — all-around sound, a new dimension in audio development for the Concorde.

All is calm and peaceful as you zip along half a mile a second. You have hardly finished dinner when the coastline and then the lights of London come into view. We approach London just three and one-half hours after leaving Washington, D.C. The tail touches the runway first, followed by the nose, and you realize the world has become smaller and life has become faster and a long journey is now a relatively short hop.

Established by Congress as a national memorial to the late president, the Harry S. Truman Scholarship Foundation provides a maximum of $5,000 a year for up to four years of college and graduate school.

Hairdresser predicts beauty changes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer

The beauty salon as we have known it may be on the way out. More emphasis will be put on giving a woman what she wants, at a price she can afford and within the time at her disposal.

That prediction comes from Jean-Louis David of Paris. American salons are already in such an atmosphere of change, the well known hairdresser points out.

"There will be new possibilities in a beauty salon, expensive and inexpensive," as he sees it. "Like dress designers who offer both couture clothes and ready-to-wear; a new kind of beauty salon will offer to pamper at a price, or a woman can merely have a hairdo without the extra services — manicure, pedicure, whatever."

The quick service is already operating at Henri Bendel, a fashionable New York retail store, where Jean-Louis has opened his first American salon. Two of his top stylists will hold the fort there when he travels.

"It does not mean that only particular women will gravitate to those services," he explained. "A woman may want the ambience of deluxe service occasionally, stretching her budget to get it, and a woman who can afford lots of pampering may want to avail herself of quick service from time to time."

In a way, the alternate beauty salon idea is designed to appeal to many women who might have done their hair at home to avoid fuss and expense.

But other things have changed. In fact, Jean-Louis has introduced some spectacular hairdos that take on new form. "Geometrics are out," he said. "It's a new kind of long hair — sexy, anti-coiffeur, natural."

He illustrated it on his wife, Danielle. After cutting the long hair in an oval shape, "blending it downward," he began setting it with pins. It can be "with or without a perm."

"First, there is a way to get the hair to the right kind of bulk," he says, using hairpins, braiding strands of hair over each prong and then bending the pin to hold it in place. Hair at roots and ends is kept free.

"Next we blow with a drier to warm the curls," he said. Combing it out, he explained, "You see it does not look Hollywood '30s. It is modern and different."

The hair frames the face in tremendous bulk and has a kind of indefinite look about it. It is a stunning look for a youthful face.

"It is not for every woman, one reason hairdressers must have rapport with clients. Each haircut should bring out the natural flow of hair. The hair is dried naturally or with lamps."

He has so much faith in his system that he has put it on videotape "so the cassettes can instruct hairdressers around the world.

"It is being done on a pyramid system — we do a technique, a movie, and we train a salon manager who trains hairdressers in the variety of hairdos from the tape. In Paris we are doing 1,200 clients a day in four salons, all different, but all modern and free.

"Young girls like the feeling of the streets. Fashion comes from the street, not from the designer. I am an artist, but not as before. The new feeling of hairdressers must be 'I'm not working for me, I'm working for the client.' I am not doing what I like to do. In fact, some things I do, I don't like, but it is important to be in fashion."

A third generation of a family of hairdressers, Jean-Louis David has worked with Carita and Alexandre of Paris, two greats in the world of hairdressing. But at 26 he had his own salon.

Gas tax given OK

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Seven urban areas in California could ask voters to impose an extra one-cent local gasoline tax for bus lanes, under a bill sent to the floor of the state Senate.

The measure by Sen. James Mills, D-San Diego, won a 10-1 vote of the Senate Finance Committee Monday, despite opposition from the Southern California Automobile Club.

The measure would give the authority to the Metropolitan Transit District in San Diego, the Los Angeles-based Southern California Rapid Transit District and the counties of Santa Clara, San Francisco, Alameda, San Mateo and Sacramento.

It is SB 213.
